2 PC Sales Tax, Death Penalty Highlight Session

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Imposition of a 2 per cent statewide sales tax and the abolition of capital punishment in most murder cases were among the highlights of the 1965 legislative session.

A record state budget of $3.4 billion was adopted. The fiscal developments also included a $157-million increase in state spending for education and approval of a $1.7-billion crash program to eliminate pollution from waters throughout the state.

Proposals Defeated
Defeated were proposals to legalize off-track betting on horse races as a new source of tax revenue and to raise the legal minimum drinking age from 18 to 21.

After rejecting the off track plan, the Legislature gave preliminary approval to a proposed constitutional amendment to establish a state-operated lottery, subject to approval of the 1966 Legislature and voters in next year's election.

Also approved were major bills to (S) indicate signed by Gov. Rockefeller:

— Double the state cigarette tax to 10 cents a package (S).

— Increase automobile registration fees by 50 per cent (S).

— Extend permanent personal registration to the 20 per cent of the state's electorate not now covered by it (S).

Submit to voters the question of whether there should be a constitutional convention in 1967 with the primary assignment of drafting a permanent plan of legislative reapportionment (S).

— Legalize the sale of birth-control devices.

Decision Made After 1963 Win

32 Years Devoted To City Service

Mayor John J. Schwenk announced today that he will not seek re-election revealed that he had made his decision after his election for a second term in 1963.

John R. Mayone, Republican city chairman, who was at City Hall when the announcement was made, was asked the party's possible choice of a candidate, said that selection of one, as of now, was "wide open."

Mentioned most, to date, as possible candidates are Alderman-at-Large Joseph F. Carroll Jr., and Andrew Murphy, 3rd, who heads the city's recreation department.

Mayor's Statement

Mayor Schwenk's statement: "Shortly after the election of 1963 my wife and I talked over our future plans and decided at that time that I would retire from public life upon completion of my present term. I have been in public service for 32 years, and during those years I have often been deprived of the press of official business. I think it is time now that we be permitted to be together during our remaining years."

"I was first elected to public office in 1931 as alderman of the Third Ward, and have been elected 11 times as alderman, alderman-at-large and mayor. In addition to these elective offices, I have served in appointive offices in Kingston, as a member and president of the Water Board, a member of the Board of Public Works, and as chairman of the Charter Revision Commission."

Thanks for Support

"Some of my associates have known for quite some time of my decision to retire at the end of my present term. It is timely

Yen Staying Despite Her Suffering

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — An iron cot in a Saigon hospital is the only home that remains for Gian Thi Yen, a 12-year-old girl wounded in the battle of Dong Xoai.

A photo of Yen, taken by Associated Press photographer Horst Faas, aroused worldwide sympathy. It showed the child, with leg wounds bandaged, limping through the rubble of Dong Xoai looking for her family.

The girl was finally flown to Saigon by American helicopter crewmen. It was thought her family had been killed by the Viet Cong guerrillas who overran the village.

Father, Two Killed

Yen's father, a soldier, had been killed. So had her younger brother, Van Bang 8, and a sister, Thi Lien, 5.

But Yen's mother, and two brothers lived. The mother, Le Thi Gai, 31, who is expecting another child, finally traced Yen to the Saigon hospital.

People in the United States and other countries wrote The Associated Press in Saigon, offering help or to adopt the little girl.

No Adoption: Mother

But Yen's mother will not consider adoption. So far, there has been no indication whether any help will actually reach them.

Their house and possessions were smashed at Dong Xoai. The father's pension amounts to just a few dollars a month.

"All our relatives live in the Communist north," said Yen's mother. "We came down to South Viet Nam when the Communists took over up there."

Loves Her Family

The best the mother can hope for is a job as a servant or laundress at one of the army camps. She is a Catholic and may also be eligible for assistance in some of the many Catholic refu-

1st Strike North of Hanoi Line Viet Chief Calls For Arms Buildup

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. fighter-bombers made their deepest penetration of North Viet Nam today and for the first time poured bombs and rockets into targets north of the "Hanoi line."

80 Miles From Border

A U.S. spokesman said one raid was against army barracks at Son La, 110 miles west northwest of Hanoi and only 80 miles from the Red Chinese border. It also was 55 miles from Dien Bien Phu, where the French army went down to final defeat in Indochina.

Eight U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs dropped 17 tons of 750-pound general purpose bombs on the complex, destroying nine buildings and damaging 20 others, the spokesman said.

The Thunderchiefs, escorted by 20 other planes, were over the target for 30 minutes, the spokesman said.

Another group of eight Thunderchiefs with the same 20 escorts attacked the Van Nuoc Chien ammunition depot 70 miles west northwest of Hanoi, the spokesman said. Moderate damage was reported to the target, an indication that there were no secondary explosions caused by exploding ammunition.

No Enemy Sighted

No enemy aircraft were sighted and antiaircraft fire was light to moderate, the spokesman said.

The previous northernmost penetration of North Viet Nam was a U.S. Navy strike against Hon Gai, 75 miles east of Hanoi. This was during the August 1964 Gulf of Tonkin crisis.

The nearest raid to Hanoi was 45 miles to the south earlier this year.

In all, some 60 U.S. and Vietnamese air force and U.S. Navy planes dropped about 300 tons of bombs on widely scattered targets in North Viet Nam today, U.S. spokesmen said. Targets included barracks, supply depots, bridges and ferries.

A F4U Corsair pilot bailed out of his F100 Super Sabre jet 25 miles south of Da Nang, in South Viet Nam, and was quickly picked up safe by an American helicopter. The plane was not hit by enemy fire, a U.S. military spokesman said.

In Saigon, a Viet Cong terrorist shouted "Down with the Americans" as he died before a firing squad for trying to blow up an American billet in a Saigon suburb.

Marines Killed by Mine

Two U.S. Marines were killed when their jeep hit a land mine 8 1/2 miles west of Da Nang. They were en route to re-establish contact with an artillery unit which was without communications, a U.S. spokesman said.

The death of the Marines brought the number of American combat dead in Viet Nam to 419.

Communists Executed

The defiant Communist, Tran Van Dang, 25, was executed at dawn in Saigon's central market square while newsmen and photographers watched.

Dang began shouting Communist slogans as he was hauled from the van. A Catholic priest stood near him for a moment.

Defense Officials at Loss

Failure to Follow B52 Raid Puzzling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense officials said they were at a loss today to explain why no attempt was made to exploit the shock effect of the B52 raid with a battalion-size or bigger sweep into the Communist jungle stronghold.

It was suggested that perhaps the South Vietnamese army may have been reluctant to risk a sizable force in an area where it had been badly chopped up in the past.

Enter Target Area

A little more than an hour after the B52s dropped their last high-explosive bombs, three 41-man teams of Vietnamese soldiers and U.S. Army officers and enlisted men entered the target area.

The mission of these teams, according to one of those American officers, was to get in and assess the damage; then get out as soon as possible — not to engage any sizable Viet Cong force.

U.S. officers who accompanied the three reconnaissance parties described the Viet Cong as "dazed, obviously in a great state of confusion" after the bombing.

Seem Disorganized

One officer said the Viet Cong were "firing high and seemed to be disorganized."

Another said the Communists "probably assumed that our forces were battalion size."

Apparently the Reds found out fairly quickly that they were not facing a big force of South Vietnamese soldiers because they began regrouping.

The State Department has claimed the bombing "made possible the entry into the area of government forces for the first time in over a year."

Actually, the South Vietnamese teams penetrated little more than the fringes of the two-square-mile bomb target zone before withdrawing.

The official statement also claimed that "the installations found were destroyed" by these teams.

No Great Destruction

However, the amount of destruction evidently was relatively small. One U.S. officer spoke

Anti-Wagner Demos Shake Adjournment

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — An eleven-hour uprising by anti-Wagner Democrats in the Assembly jeopardized plans to adjourn the 1965 Legislature today.

Democratic leaders insisted, however, that they would be able to bring the session to a close tonight, despite a sudden challenge from opponents of the New York City tax-and-borrowing plan.

Adjournment was set officially for 3 p.m. today. But, by custom, the clocks are stopped and the lawmakers continue working until they have cleared away all pending business.

In another last-minute development, Gov. Rockefeller pressed for action on two key measures in his own legislative program — repeal of the railroad full-crew laws and approval of a plan designed to hold down mounting hospital costs.

His hospital bill stood a fair chance of passage. But it was unlikely that the Democratic majorities — closely allied with organized labor — would yield on the full-crew issue.

The major impediment to adjournment was the request of New York's Mayor Robert F. Wagner for permission to borrow $300 million to meet city budget deficits, pending voter approval of a 20-per-cent in-

Bundy Defends Johnson's Policy As Best in U.S. Present Danger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential adviser McGeorge Bundy confronted critics of the Johnson administration's Viet Nam policies Monday night and said "the policy which the United States is now following is the best policy in a difficult and dangerous situation."

That policy, Bundy asserted, "is that we should stay there, that we should do our part, as may become necessary, do only what is necessary, and seek constantly, as we have for months and months, to find a way to get this dangerous and difficult business to the conference room."

Speaking for the critics, Dr. Hans Morgenthau, professor of political science at the University of Chicago, said, "I think our aim must be to get out of Viet Nam but to get out of it with honor."

He rejected the idea of an immediate withdrawal and said the United States should seek face-saving devices to rectify the situation, such as the French achieved in their withdrawal from Algeria.

A brisk clash between Bundy and Morgenthau highlighted the hour-long special CBS television and radio program, although there were similarities in the practical steps urged by the two men. Altogether, six

So-Called Nuisance Taxes Wiped Out Last Midnight

By GEOFFREY GOULD

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you buy a piece of jewelry today, a lipstick, a handbag, a suitcase or even a knapsack, you won't have to pay a federal retail tax on it — for the first time in years.

Those so-called nuisance taxes were among the federal excise taxes wiped out at midnight after President Johnson signed the $4.7-billion tax cut bill in a White House ceremony Monday.

Other excise taxes are being reduced in stages. The first-stage cuts on two big ones — cars and air conditioners — are retroactive to last May 15, so that if you bought one of these anytime since then you'll get a refund. On cars the refund should average about $70.

As he used dozens of souvenir pens to sign the bill, Johnson called it "a bright day for all Americans."

The President said "this excise tax bill will make its maximum contribution to our economic health only if businesses pass along to consumers the full amount of the reduction in the tax. And today I urge every manufacturer and every retailer in this country to do just that."

Price cuts to follow the tax cuts are not mandatory, but the makers and sellers of the goods are generally expected to pass on the savings to consumers.

Johnson said: "When there is again opportunity for tax revision, we hope, in particular, to provide further tax relief to those in our nation need it most — those taxpayers who now live in the shadow of poverty."

The President didn't explain what he had in mind for this sometime, in-the-future tax cut possibility.

The first stage of the reductions will "lift one and three-quarters billion dollars of onerous taxes from the American economy," the President said.

The second step next January will cut excises by an equal amount. Some of the cuts, such as on autos and telephone calls, will be made in stages up until Jan. 1, 1969.

Johnson said the tax cuts will "pay big dividends in lower prices, more jobs, more sales and more production, not just in 1965 and 1966 but for years to come."

In spite of the cuts, excise taxes bringing in more than $10.5 billion a year will remain in effect. They are mostly on alcoholic beverages, cigarettes and gasoline. Congress has shown no desire to tamper with these revenue-producers.

Woman Returns $776

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) — Tami Garbe, 6, was helping her grandfather, E. J. Toske, take some money to the bank from a woman's clothing store Monday.

Tami was carrying the big money bag, which contained $300 cash and $476.80 in checks. They stopped at a service station, and Tami left the bag in a restroom.

A half hour later a woman turned the money over to a courthouse custodian. She left without identifying herself.

Door Open on CR

HARRISBURG (AP) — Tired of waiting for Democrats, the Scranton Administration has proceeded with its civil rights program in the House, leaving the door open for possible bipartisan support later.

The administration introduced its four-bill civil rights package Monday without a single Democratic sponsor more than a month after turning it over to majority leaders in the House in hopes of gaining their backing.

Escaping Negro Shot, Took Life Of Cop Earlier

MACON, Ga. (AP) — A volley of gunfire ended the life of a man Monday night as he attempted to escape police for the second time by shooting his way free.

The man, identified as Willie L. Sheffield, 30, a Negro, had fled Macon's police headquarters about 10 hours earlier by killing one detective and seriously wounding another.

A huge search party was combing a swampy area in South Macon Monday night when Sheffield, armed with a .38-caliber revolver, arrived by car at a house in the eastern part of the city.

Police, acting on a tip, were waiting.

"Sheffield came up to the house and Policeman (R. L.) Moody put a gun in his back and told him to put his hands up," said Detective Johnny H. Bennett, who was approaching the house in a car.

"Sheffield turned and fired one by Moody's ear and ran out into the yard. We picked him up in the lights and he was shot while backing off firing at the officers on the porch."

Sheffield had shot his way from police headquarters in Macon's city hall, killing Detective Thomas Hinson, 43, and wounding Detective T. J. Mitchell, 48.

Police said the two detectives had arrested Sheffield on charges of attempting to pass a worthless $2,000 check at a Macon bank.

"They picked him up and took him to the interrogation room," said Chief of Detectives W. H. Barger. "They stayed in there about five minutes. Then they brought him out and were about to book him."

"But they made a mistake. They should have searched him. He didn't say a word. He just took out the pistol and started shooting."

Continued in Supreme Court before County Judge Raymond J. Mino, assigned to the June term of Supreme Court, is an automobile negligence action brought by Thomas P. Murray Jr., of Saugerties against the operators of several cars involved in a chain collision on the Thruway at the Harriman interchange. Murray was a passenger in the car of his nephew, Thomas F. J. Murray, Jan. 14, 1961, when in a fog several cars collided as one was about to turn off the Thruway to Route 17.

The action is brought against Tunis Van Derkrake, Arnold Flor, Michael Sorensen, Thomas F. J. Murray, William Van Allen and Clancy Carriers and Storage and Norman W. Snow.

Francello and Brinnier of Saugerties, with Charles Gaffney as trial counsel, appear for plaintiff.

Cyclist, Passenger Hurt in Dutchess

A teenage motorcyclist and his passenger were injured when their cycle collided with a station wagon Monday afternoon on Route 9G south of Pleasant Plains Road in Dutchess County.

State Police at the Rhinebeck-Hyde Park substation said that Robert H. Ackerman, 16, of Schultz Hill Road, Rhinebeck, was operating a 1963 model cycle south and attempted to pass a car which was making a left turn when his vehicle collided with the station wagon driven by Pao Chin, 50, of Livingston Street, Rhinebeck.

Ackerman was taken to Northern Dutchess Hospital where he was treated for multiple abrasions of the body, arms and legs. Thomas Edward Greco, 15, of Arndt Road, Rhinebeck, his passenger, was taken to the same hospital for treatment of compound fractures of the right knee and abrasions.

Trooper Joseph Cullen investigated.

Students Protest As Korea, Japan Sign Seven Pacts

TOKYO (AP) — Japan and South Korea signed treaties today to establish normal relations for the first time in 60 years. It was the climax of 14 years of on-and-off negotiations.

Thousands of students staged noisy demonstrations in Seoul and Tokyo to protest the treaties.

Halts Vote Junket

Foreign ministers Lee Dong Woon of South Korea and Eisaku Sato of Japan signed the documents at the official residence of Premier Eisaku Sato. Sato interrupted an election junket to witness the ceremony which was nationally televised.

The foreign ministers signed a basic treaty, four separate agreements and two protocols, covering diplomatic relations, fisheries, Korean property claims and economic cooperation, the status of Korean nationals residing in Japan, cultural property and cultural cooperation, $300 million in Japanese grants and $200 million in long-term, low-interest loans from Japan.

The negotiations did not settle the status of Takeshima Island.

Beach Sleeping Taboo

TIVERTON, R.I. (AP) — The Town Council has banned sleeping on public beaches during the Newport Jazz Festival starting June 30.

The action Monday night means there are no beaches near Newport to accommodate the thousands of high school and college age patrons who traditionally attend the festival. The festival ends July 6.

Danes to Hear Wagner

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner will speak at Fourth of July ceremonies in Copenhagen, Denmark.

Wagner said Monday he will leave New York July 1 and return July 8. He is taking his two sons, Robert and Duncan, with him.

land which both countries claim. It was referred to further talks.

Arrest 600 Youths

Club-swinging police arrested about 600 youths in Seoul while breaking up a demonstration by about 7,000 students. Scores of police and demonstrators were injured and army troops were called out as the protest went into its second straight day.

In Tokyo, some 3,000 members of the left-wing Zengakurō student organization took to the streets.

The Koreans charge the treaty is a "sellout" and Korea should have held out for more war reparations.

The left-wing Japanese contend it will lead to an anti-Communist northeast Asia military alliance and will dim chances for reunification of South and North Korea.

Japan annexed Korea on Aug. 22, 1910, and held it until the end of World War II.

Delightfully Light Luncheon Dish

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Chef's Salad makes a delightfully light yet satisfying hot weather luncheon dish. The combination of crisp salad greens, raw mushrooms and garden vegetables with strips of ham, chicken and sliced tongue should take anybody's mind off the heat. Particularly when there's plenty of refreshing iced tea to go with it.

If you make the iced tea ahead of time, do not store in the refrigerator. Refrigeration tends to cloud iced tea, so keep it at room temperature until ready to serve, then at last moment pour over ice cubes. If tea should turn cloudy, it is easy to restore its amber-clear color by adding a little boiling water.

CHEF'S SALAD
(Makes 6 servings)

- 1 medium head escarole
- 2 cups cooked artichoke hearts (fresh, frozen or canned)
- 1 cup broccoli florets
- 1 cup cauliflower florets
- 2 cups fresh mushroom slices
- 1 cup boiled ham strips
- 1 cup sliced cooked tongue
- 1 cup cooked chicken strips
- 16 pitted ripe olives, sliced

Have all ingredients prepared and well chilled. Line salad bowl with escarole. Arrange vegetables and meats in sections on top of greens. Separate sections with rows of sliced olives. Accompany with French dressing or oil and vinegar.

Jim: "Just in case some readers don't know the convention we might as well repeat here that when one partner bids four no trump the other one responds five clubs to show no aces or four aces; five diamonds to show one ace; five hearts to show two aces and five spades to show three."

Oswald: "When you mention that the five-club response shows no aces or four aces you are discussing an expert refinement. Experts figure that they can always tell which number aces is being shown and we can talk about this tomorrow and explain why this double use of five clubs is of value to those who use it."

Little sparks...

burn great forests

Common sense is all that stands between controlled burning and full-scale forest fires. Before you start any fire, check local regulations... Be sure fires can't spread... Never burn on dry or windy days... and never leave fires unattended. Nine out of ten forest fires are caused by careless people. So don't be careless.

Before you start any fire:

1. Follow the local regulations
2. Be sure fire can't spread
3. Don't burn on dry or windy days
4. And never leave fire unattended

Please!... only you can prevent forest fires

BOOKS FOR APPALACHIA

Every now and again there is a fresh illustration of how private effort can effectively augment government aid programs. One of the most interesting instances of this kind is the current effort of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers to supply books to the hill country schools in the distressed Appalachian region.

Various federal programs are being brought to bear in this poverty-stricken area. The regional plan, with its construction of better roads and its sponsorship of various community efforts, is of major significance. Federal aid to education also will provide help of a kind especially needed in sections that comprise a sort of backwater along the stream of American affluence. But whatever aid to education is forthcoming, the one-room schools will still need more books.

Thus far the national PTA program has already had significant results: some half a million books have been collected and sent to Appalachia. The present goal is double that number.

It seems eminently worth noting that REA Express, which is cooperating to the extent of shipping the PTA-collected books to Louisville at a low special rate that applies anywhere in the country, has just extended this rate to mid-July. If local PTA groups can maintain their book-collecting momentum, there is a good chance of reaching the goal by then. That would be a big feather in the cap of the PTA, and a solid boost for education in Appalachia come next fall. Few efforts could give citizens a keener sense of lending direct help where it is needed.

SILVER'S NOT THE KEY

There still appears to be some feeling that the proposed new silverless coinage may not "really" be worth as much as present dimes, quarters and half dollars. This is nonsense.

The fact is that we have long since passed beyond the old notion that a coin must have a certain intrinsic value as precious metal. This is no longer true, just as it is no longer true that enough silver or gold is stashed away somewhere to back the multiple billions of paper money circulating.

The new coins will be a "sandwich" of copper and nickel. They will look and feel much like present silver coinage. And they will buy exactly as much. For the new coins, like those we now use, will be backed by the unparalleled strength of the American economy. That, and not silver content, is the vital factor.

A fellow of our acquaintance came to work Monday with a sore back from too much backyard stooping. He says he now knows what's meant by a weak end gardener.

FREEDOM, NOT LICENSE

"It's a free country" is a sentence heard often when there is disagreement among individuals or organizations. It was heard in defense of a group of farmers who blocked legitimate deliveries of livestock by lining up rows of trucks with just one animal in each. It is heard on both sides in civil rights discussions. Young persons quote it rebelliously when asked to conform to certain standards of conduct.

"It's a free country" is a sentence that needs evaluation. The fact is that this is not a free country, if by freedom one means the right of every citizen to do exactly as he pleases. That is mere license, and it is intolerable.

Civic responsibility and concern for the rights of others have built a nation where individual citizens have more liberty than anywhere else in the world. But they are not free to steal, kill or otherwise abuse their fellow men. They are not even completely free to assault the sensibilities of others—for example, with pointless obscenities.

Civilization might almost be defined as that condition in which a multitude of people can live together with the least loss of liberty to the individual. This condition is

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

DOES ANYBODY CARE ABOUT REAPPORTIONMENT

When, or if, Senator Dirksen succeeds in his battle to change the U.S. Supreme Court edict that the "one man, one vote" criterion must be used in electing both houses of our state legislatures, it will probably be too late to make any difference. For the states seem to be rushing ahead to comply with the Supreme Court's command to reapportion, and the proposed Dirksen legislation, if it survives a filibuster in the U.S. Senate, could, like Jackson's victory at New Orleans in 1815, come after the war is over.

What Dirksen wants is to make it legal for a state to elect one branch of its legislature on a geographical, or "unit," basis rather than on a basis of population. As everybody knows, this is the way it's done in national elections, with little Delaware getting as many U.S. Senators as populous California or New York. When the framers of our national constitution adopted the idea in 1787, it was known as the "Connecticut Compromise"—and it was patterned on Connecticut's own practice of giving equal representation to the separate towns in one branch of its legislature regardless of population statistics. As our forefathers saw it, "unit," or geographical, representation was a guarantee that big urban regions wouldn't swamp country districts. The rule would seem fundamental to a check-and-balance society. Indeed, it's the only reason for having two houses of Congress, or two branches of any state legislature anywhere. Otherwise we might as well have unicameral legislatures.

Alas, even in the state that offered the "Connecticut Compromise" to the Founding Fathers at Philadelphia in 1787, there seems to be only apathy about the recent ruling of the Supreme Court. The two big political bosses of Connecticut—Democratic Chairman John M. Bailey (who also doubles at National Chairman of his party) and Republican Chairman A. Searle Pinney—long ago decided there was no use waiting for Dirksen to try to reverse the Court's decision. Accordingly, the two bosses plumped for a Constitutional Convention, which is to start on July 1, the idea being that the state's legislative body must be made over to conform to the ruling of the U.S. Supreme Court. And once a Constitutional Convention has pronounced, what difference would it make to Connecticut citizens even if Senator Dirksen should succeed in his crusade to upset the Supreme Court's edict? They'd hardly hold two Constitutional Conventions in Connecticut in rapid succession.

The farcical thing about it in Connecticut is that in five of the state's six Congressional districts the delegates to the Convention were entirely handpicked by the bosses. To the end of putting Connecticut on a "one man, one vote" basis, nobody got any say at all in choosing candidates to represent him at the Convention. It was a clear case of "one man, no vote." The electorate was merely permitted to go to the polls last week to endorse the pre-chosen candidates, seven Democrats and seven Republicans in each Congressional District.

Vivien Kellems, the 69-year-old lady industrialist who once stood off the Federal government for months by refusing to deduct income taxes for the men on her payroll on the ground that she wasn't a tax collector, showed her perennial spunk by telling that this was a "sit-in" or "Hitler" election. She conducted a "sit-in" in her booth and was arrested. But it could be that the average voter in the state agreed with her. For the turn-outs at the polls to endorse the eighty-odd boss-picked delegates to the Convention averaged about three per cent of the electorate. A professor friend of mine who was born in Russia boycotted the polls on principle. He said he'd had enough of Stalin-type endorsements of a single state when he was a Soviet citizen.

And all this in the State that was the vital leader in setting the form of the federal government's Senate-House legislative pattern! What chance has Senator Dirksen got to put a halt to the degradation of our politics? Apathy could, of course, be stirred to resentment, as people like Vivien Kellems keep hoping. But Senator Dirksen had better work fast.

Plants Harmless for Adult
May Be Poison for Child

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A couple of readers have questioned my inclusion of milkweed in a list of poisonous plants. They state that young shoots can be cooked and eaten like asparagus. It is true that this plant appears on some lists of wild natural foods or "survival foods" and it is probably not harmful to adults, especially when cooked.

One case of poisoning each from Kansas, Kentucky, Massachusetts and Ohio was reported in 1959 and 1960. The parts eaten were the pod, leaves and "milk." The victims' ages ranged from 2 to 4½ years and they had bouts of vomiting, stupor and collapse. None of them died.

Another reader calls attention, quite correctly, to the fact that the hemlock that killed Socrates was not the evergreen tree (hemlock spruce) but either water hemlock or the closely related Conium maculatum. The evergreen needles are very tasty and are often used to make a brew similar to pin tea.

Several readers have also written to question the inclusion of rosemary, sage and flax in my list. The dried leaves of rosemary and sage are harmless when used in small amounts as seasoning. Eating the fresh leaves in large amounts, as children sometimes do, is dangerous. Sage contains thujone which in large amounts has been known to cause death. Flax seeds and possibly other parts of the plant are poisonous only when eaten in large amounts, but a tea brewed from flaxseeds is not poisonous or I would not be here today.

There are doubtless other plants in my list which can be eaten with impunity provided certain parts are avoided, the plant is cooked or the person eating it is an adult.

Q—What is the cause of undulant fever? What are the symptoms? Is it hereditary or catching? Is it related to milk leg?

A—Undulant fever is an infection with a germ that is transmitted chiefly by drinking unpasteurized milk from cows with Bang's disease. It is not hereditary and is not passed from one human being to another. An attack starts with a low fever, headache, weakness, insomnia, loss of appetite, sweats and generalized aching pains. The disease if untreated becomes chronic with many relapses but it can now be cured with antibiotics.

It is not related to milk leg, which is a swelling of one leg due to inflammation and clotting in the large veins sometimes observed in a mother a few days after delivery.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

impossible without some restraint on absolute freedom. "It's a free country" is a sentence used when sound arguments fail or emotion overrides logic. This country has more freedom than most, perhaps more freedom than any other, but that is true only because Americans have traditionally accepted the responsibilities and limitations that go with freedom.

Washington News

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Viet Cong mainline troops are winning battles in Viet Nam because we do not apply the lessons learned in Korea.

The Communist V. C. show in exaggerated form one major exploitable weakness Mao Tse-tung's Red Chinese demonstrated in the North Korean fighting.

They spend weeks (perhaps 60 to 90 days or more) preparing for a series of quick engagements. During this preparation time they are extremely vulnerable.

After a battle, or a short hard-fought series, they duck away to patch their wounded, bury their dead, replenish their ammunition and weapon supplies, fill their thinned ranks, restock their food and rest and recuperate.

During this period also they are extremely vulnerable. Their weakest period, of course, is immediately after a series of sharp battles in which there are hundreds of casualties on both sides.

THE LESSON LEARNED IN KOREA

was that the Red Chinese had to be hit precisely when their steam ran out. They'd build up for a battle, bring in their supplies, arms and fresh troops. They'd push ahead full blast until suddenly their logistics and communications would be too far extended. Their supplies and ammunition would run low. They'd be out of steam.

If U. S.-Korean-United Nations forces waited until the Reds built another head of steam, the Chinese were hard to stop. But once Allied forces caught on to the trick of hitting the Reds just as a drive collapsed, the story was different; the Communists asked for negotiations.

The same lesson holds in Viet Nam. V.C. prisoners ask their captors wondering why U.S.-Vietnamese forces don't track down and attack major Red training and reorganization encampments after major battles when the Communists are weak and unready for fighting.

Instead of doing this, we are meeting the V.C. on their own terms, when they are rested and ready. This is deadly.

The Viet Cong are good fighters, but not supermen. They have proved as vulnerable to ambush as government troops.

There is some tracking after battle. Vietnamese forces which have taken the offensive against the Reds have done exceedingly well.

But most reports say contact was lost and the V.C. disappeared.

It is impossible for a group of three mainline Communist battalions with 400 or more casualties to "disappear." They're not guerrillas. Villagers have reported Reds coming through their hamlets after a major battle with cartloads of dead and wounded. These troops are tied down. They are certainly easier to track than the American Indians of frontier days and we had scouts who could do this.

There are indications that a share of the Viet Cong are demoralized after such major battles, even though they win. In recent bloody engagements, the rate at which V.C. desert or are captured is double that of last fall's battles.

If Korea is any example, battle-weary Red battalions attacked in force by co-ordinated ground-air units with fresh troops are suckers for well-laid ambushes (if the government troops keep scouts out to prevent being ambushed themselves).

Timely Quotes

I am not sure whether you invited me because I definitely am a candidate for the Senate, as some of you have indicated in print, or because I definitely am not, as others of you have suggested. You can be assured that I will be reading your stories with intense interest to learn the final answer.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

From time to time I receive items from readers without signatures. Sometime ago I received some Vanderlyn, Landing of Columbus, 1892 stamps, and thanked my reader in the column for them. Now on June 9, he sent a few more and writes that knowing I often mention old newspapers perhaps I run across items on old Masonic Lodges in Ulster and Greene Counties prior to 1850, as he is compiling information on them. I do not have too many newspapers of that early age but now I will be on the lookout for this information for Paul Jones of Seudder Avenue. Presently I am interested in 1965 Hudson-Fulton unused stamps as perhaps they can be combined with the August 19th Fulton stamp, on the cacheted envelopes.

I received a very nice letter from the special assistant to the Postmaster General, Ira Kapenstein of Washington, D. C. 20260. He writes: "Thank you for your letter of May 22nd concerning the Robert Fulton commemorative stamp. I am enclosing press releases giving the procedure for handling the first day covers at Kingston, N. Y. Our official publication 'Postage Stamps of the United States' has been revised to include the stamps issued through 1963. An order blank is enclosed. If there is any further information you need for your column, please do not hesitate to call upon us."

I have this book from 1847-1949 and the new one has some 248 pages to the Audubon Commemorative Stamp issued Dec. 7, 1963. It gives detailed information as to exact size, color, what or whom it pictures, when it went on sale, number of stamps printed, number of plates used in printing, them, list of designers and engravers of each stamp issued from Feb. 1953 to Dec. 1963 and much on first day covers and government sells it for $1.25.

The following in part from the April 10th 1965 Philatelic release of the Robert Fulton stamp as sent to me from the Office of the Postmaster General in Washington, D. C.: "First day ceremonies for the Fulton stamp will be held August 19th in Clermont, New York. Requests for covers, however, should not be sent to Clermont. Collectors should address their requests: 'First Day Covers Fulton stamp, Postmaster, Kingston, New York 12401.' Covers will carry the Clermont cancellation, but will be processed at nearby Kingston. . . Clermont, the village where Robert Fulton and his wife lived, does not have a post office.

Tribute to Bernard Baruch, One of America's Greatest

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—It is hard to realize that Bernard M. Baruch has passed away and that his constructive advice to Presidents of the United States during the last half-century and the flow of comment to his friends on current topics are at an end.

Mr. Baruch's point of view on international questions is illustrated by a letter he wrote this correspondent on June 4. Lamenting the position which President de Gaulle has taken in world affairs, Mr. Baruch called attention to a memorandum he himself had written in January 1963, in which he had said:

"The fact is that France today seems to have forgotten not only America's part in two great wars, and our contribution to France's recovery from them, but the burdens we have been bearing for the past 15 years so that she and the rest of the world might continue to enjoy freedom and prosperity, so much of which is owed to us. . . ."

"The danger of nuclear war, whether by design or accident, would also grow in proportion to the number of nations armed with atomic weapons. Every thoughtful person must recognize this, and de Gaulle deludes himself and his people by insisting that France's security requires her to build nuclear weapons."

"If France is to be an atomic power, why not Germany? And if Germany, why not Italy and if Italy, why not every other nation? There is no longer any secret to the making of atomic weapons and there are few nations who could not find the resources to build them. Let the atomic arms race become a free-for-all, and we can abandon all hope for the future."

De Gaulle is a strong-willed man, and it will take the most persuasive arguments to make him revise his views. But we must do everything possible to induce him to make room in his thinking not only for the glory and grandeur of France, but for the strength and unity of the free world and the safety of all men."

Mr. Baruch was especially helpful behind the scenes during the two world wars. He gave to the government from day to day the benefit of his intimate knowledge and experience in organizing the industries of America to supply the Allies in the crucial months of World War I. He once said to this writer: "If you understand raw materials, you understand politics of the world."

Shortly after President Wilson appointed Mr. Baruch to serve as chairman of the war industries board, this correspondent wrote on Aug. 3, 1918:

"Mr. Wilson was impressed by the alertness of mind, ingenuity and daring shown by Bernard M. Baruch in gathering together raw materials and the suave and stimulating manner in which he had completed voluntary agreements with the lead, zinc, steel and copper producers at a saving of much money to the government. Mr. Baruch himself made millions in the stock market and in the development of mineral resources by "I kept provision but he resigned his seat on the New York Stock Exchange and, catching the spirit of national service, applied his talents with the same zeal to the cause of his country. The President has absolute faith in Mr. Baruch's integrity, his rare courage and qualities of instant decision."

One of the most interesting episodes revealing the perspicacity of Bernard M. Baruch occurred several months before America's entry into the war. All of a sudden, the stock market had dropped in December 1916. Mr. Baruch "sold short" and made a lot of money. The cause of the market's slump was related to talk of peace inspired by a speech by the German Chancellor. Fear had arisen that the war industries in this country would collapse.

Prime Minister Lloyd George of Great Britain officially rejected the German bid for peace. As his speech came over the teletype wires, there was in the latter part of his pronouncement a seemingly contradictory paragraph. It began with the word "but."

"I went to it as light and as fast as I could when I saw the word 'but' on the ticker," testified Mr. Baruch later before a Congressional committee investigating an alleged "leak" of President Wilson's peace note of December 18.

It became apparent, however, from the brokerage records submitted that, if Mr. Baruch had really known in advance about President Wilson's note, he would have handled his transaction somewhat differently and would have made far more money. He mistakenly thought the peace moves were over and had already turned to the "long" side of the market. Then the market on December 22 suffered its bitter decline in 15 years. Mr. Baruch's testimony was so frank and convincing that over night it virtually terminated the investigation.

Mr. Baruch understood the psychology of national as well as international life. He served the government again and again without accepting any salary or expenses. His unselfishness was also reflected in his large contributions to charitable and other organizations designed to aid human welfare. He was one of the most versatile advisers to a President that newsmen have ever observed in public life—and the symbol of patriotism itself.

Of the land birds in North America the night-hawk and the barn swallow have the longest migration routes. They breed as far north as the Yukon and Alaska and winter as far south as Argentina, a distance of about 7,000 miles. The longest and most remarkable of all migrations is that of the arctic tern. When the young are full grown, all the terns leave their breeding grounds and a few months later arrive in the antarctic region, 11,000 miles away.

To Tour Mid-Hudson Sites With Eyes Toward Industry

Many of the best commercial and industrial sites in the Mid-Hudson Valley will be viewed Wednesday by the commercial and industrial division of the Westchester County Realty Board, whose members have expressed a particular interest in properties generally located near Interstate Route 84.

About 40 commercial and industrial real estate brokers will tour the northern Orange and southern Dutchess Counties by bus tomorrow in an effort to "get a general impression of the area." Charles H. Adler, Industrial Development Director of Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation, organized the tour at the request of the Westchester organization.

In commenting on the tour, Adler noted that the industrial real estate specialists will have an opportunity to see a number of sites which are suitable for a variety of manufacturing, processing and servicing facilities. Also on the agenda are visits to four industrial parks and two residential projects. Adler emphasized that "there is no better way to promote the region than to give people responsible for land purchase and development a first hand look at what is available." Members of the Westchester group specialize in locating property and plant facilities for industrial clients.

The Westchester County Realty Board members will depart from Tarrytown at about 8:30 a. m. and travel by the Tappan Zee Bridge and the New York State Thruway to exit 17 at Newburgh. The bus will proceed on Routes 207 and 208 to Maybrook and the Orange County Airport. The schedule also includes a tour of the Route 17K area before traveling on Interstate Route 84 and the Newburgh-Beacon Bridge to southern Dutchess County.

Adler and John W. Beal, Central Hudson's Industrial Development Representative, will accompany the guests on the bus and answer questions not covered in a special brochure prepared for the tour.

The schedule for southern Dutchess County includes a tour of sites along Routes 9-D, 84, 52, and 9. The entire bus tour is expected to be completed within four and one-half hours. A luncheon at Dutchess Manor for the guests and local civic and business leaders will conclude the program.

Kowal Is Back At Buffalo Desk

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Mayor Chester Kowal, found unconscious on the floor of his city hall office about 10 hours after his indictment by a grand jury, has returned to work following a five-day hospital stay.

Kowal was released Monday from Columbus Hospital, where he had been rushed early last Wednesday, and presided later in the day at official greeting ceremonies at his city hall office for national Jaycee president, Stan Ladley, of Bartlesville, Okla.

There are 10,000 Jaycees and their wives here for a five-day national convention which opened Monday.

Kowal and former corporation counsel Ralph Saft were indicted last Tuesday on charges of conspiracy, accepting unlawful fees and violating state law concerning public officials. Kowal also was charged with perjury.

Both have denied the charges.

The Other Day

We read about methods for determining guilt or innocence in medieval times. They included such ordeals as having to walk on hot coals, having to hold a red hot iron in bare hands, immersion of an arm in boiling water, or armed combat with an expert. After the ordeal the arm, hands, or feet were bound up, and inspected three days afterward; if the accused had escaped unharmed he was pronounced innocent; if otherwise, guilty. In the ordeal of cold water (mode of trial for witchcraft) the alleged witch was thrown into a pool; if he floated he was guilty; if he sank he was acquitted. Penalties in those times, even for murder, were almost always paid in the form of fines. The wergild (man money payment) varied according to the rank of the murdered person. The penalty for overlooking us can very well be loss of money and lower satisfaction. See our values now!

Goal of NAACP Is 100,000 More Alabama Votes

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People—banned in Alabama for eight years—has begun its first major civil rights project since it won approval to operate under a court order.

The project is statewide Negro voter registration. Its goal: 100,000 more registered Negro voters in Alabama by the summer's end, creation of stronger county leadership among Negroes and a new image for Alabama.

NAACP chapter leaders and businessmen—both white and Negro—were among the estimated 100 civil rights volunteers who began the campaign Monday by attending the opening of a two-day workshop period.

The volunteers will go in groups to make the county-to-county, sometimes door-to-door, drive to encourage Negroes to apply to vote.

They will be joined later by more volunteers—all selected by the NAACP from across the nation. The total assigned to Alabama is 240.

The NAACP regained its status last year when the U.S. Supreme Court ruled unanimously that Alabama had no constitutional basis for banning the organization.

Connelly Water Plan Hearing Set Wednesday Night

A public hearing on the proposal to annex the Connally area to Port Ewen Water District will be held Wednesday 8 p. m. at Esopus Town Hall, Port Ewen.

The hearing will be the culmination of a campaign by Connally residents to obtain water from Port Ewen Water System. The request was made late last summer, shortly after Port Ewen's new Hudson River water treatment plant went into operation.

A petition with the required number of signers and property holders has been filed with the Town Board. The total assessed valuation of the Connally area to be added to the Port Ewen Water District is $215,894. The project would include installation of about 10,000 feet

70 in Memory March

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP)—Some 70 persons made a hot, dusty 12-mile march to the charred ruins of a Negro church Monday in memory of three slain civil rights workers.

The parade from Philadelphia to the ruins marked the first anniversary of the murder of the trio — Andy Goodman and Mickey Schwerner, white New Yorkers; and James Chaney, a Negro from nearby Meridian. The highway patrol guarded the march route. There were no incidents during the march.

Wagner Is Urged To Tap Hudson

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner has been urged to consider tapping the Hudson River to ease the city's water shortage, caused by severe drought.

Water Commissioner Armand D'Angelo urged Monday that a former pumping station on the Hudson River at Chelsea, five miles above Beacon, be rebuilt. The site is above the salt water line.

The station was built but never used during a 1949-50 drought. It has a potential of 100 million gallons a day. The drought let up and the plant was dismantled.

Hudson River water has not been used for drinking in modern times in New York City. Volcanic heat furnishes much of the electricity used by the Italian State Railways.

Store Is Lauded For Snappy Ad in May 5 Freeman

Spring and summer are the natural setting for college graduates, proud parents and young honeymooners to receive congratulations. But this year even a local men's clothing store got into the act—and for a most unusual reason.

Magazine publishers, advertisers and about a dozen nationally-known clothiers have been extending their highest compliments recently to H. G. Rafalowsky Inc., 71 Albany Avenue for an advertisement the local store published in the May 5 issue of The Kingston Daily Freeman.

The advertisement announced the 50th anniversary of the store. But it wasn't an ordinary announcement. The eye-catching part about it was the listing of 18 names—18 different ways to misspell "Rafalowsky." The store concluded its ad by thanking its customers of the past 50 years for learning how to say and spell "Rafalowsky."

Compliments for the clever approach of the advertisement were forwarded to Herman G. and Norman Rafalowsky by such established institutions as Gentlemen's Quarterly, Hickey-Freeman, Eagle Clothes, West Mill Clothes and H. Daroff and Sons.

Clothier Excited

Joseph Daroff, president of H. Daroff and Sons, which makes Botany 500 clothing, wrote that "this is a most unusual and exciting ad. I got a great kick in reading it and am sure every one else in your town also felt the same way."

E. G. Brun, advertising manager of Hickey-Freeman commented that "Right off the bat I'd like to say that your ad is the most refreshingly different anniversary idea I have come across in many years."

The advertising director of Damon Clothes summarized that the ad was "an excellent one and its warm and sincere approach clearly indicates why, over the past years, you have built a successful business."

Mentioned in Magazine

News of the advertisement also reached Men's Wear, a clothing magazine published by Fairchild.

Illegal Fireworks Given as Cause Of Eye Injuries

Public apathy over enforcement of fireworks laws is breeding needless blindness and eye damage among children, the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, Inc. warned here today in a pre-Fourth of July eye safety message.

The society reported that a random survey of 24 cases of blindness and eye injuries during 1964 showed that 19 of them occurred within states with legislation banning fireworks except in licensed public displays.

Cites News Accounts

John W. Ferree, MD, executive director of the voluntary health agency, also cited newspaper accounts of last July Fourth holiday incidents: "Fireworks Law Openly Flouted" and "Policeman Faces Charges Over Fireworks," from major cities in states with anti-fireworks statutes.

"If this type of indifference to our fireworks laws continues, we can anticipate a return to the wholesale casualties of the early 1900's," Dr. Ferree said. "It took nearly 500 deaths in 1903 to make Americans realize the need for fireworks controls. Let's hope it doesn't take another such disaster to prove the need for enforcement."

Pre-teenage boys were the most frequent victims of 1964 eye accidents from firecrackers, according to the National Society. Seven of the 24 persons hurt were boys between 10 and 12 years of age. Five victims were girls, one of them a four-year-old whose right eye was seriously injured by a firecracker thrown by her father.

"Fireworks still blind and maim because most people, though they talk strict enforcement, won't follow through," Dr. Ferree said. "The black market in fireworks flourishes in most states because parents decline to see to it that bootleggers are prosecuted," he declared.

Locate Bootlegger

"If your child buys some contraband firecrackers and you confiscate them, don't count your job done unless you help authorities locate the bootlegger. Fire prevention and police officials must take the lead in enforcing fireworks laws, but they require every assistance," the NSPB executive director said.

Check closely on the activities of your youngsters during the Fourth of July holiday, cautioned Dr. Ferree, especially if they have shown an interest in matches, ammunition, powder or rockets. Take the family to a public display where they can enjoy fireworks in safety.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP)—There is something about the show business breed that provides the inescapable urge to: 1. Organize; and 2. Give awards.

They all do it: writers, directors, costume designers, makeup artists, etc. I thought I had heard of all the organizations and their awards until I was invited to a banquet by genial George (Bullets) Duragam.

Bullets is nowhere as menacing as his name. He is, in fact, an ingratiating gent about the size of Mickey Rooney, whom he has managed. His present clients include Elizabeth Ashley, Trini Lopez, Kate Smith, etc.

"Hey, we're having our annual banquet of the Conference of Personal Managers, West," Bullets announced. "We're giving two awards to Frank Sinatra as Performer of the Year and Man of the Year. Why don't you come?"

Why not? So I appeared at the Rodeo Room of the Beverly Hills Hotel and found the conference of Personal Managers, West, huddled in the bar. President Richard Link (Andy Griffith), Jim Nabors explained what the members do.

"Please don't call us agents," he said. "We're managers, and there's a difference. Agents get jobs for performers; we don't. We discover, mold, guide and advise careers."

So indoctrinated, I was prepared for the banquet, which featured prime ribs, rare, and pineapple sherbert, malded. Unlike most Hollywood banquets, the program was merifully brief. Two brief speeches, presentation of old and new officers and back to the bar.

Sinatra seemed delighted with his award and said so: "This is a great moment for me."

Buried Standing Up

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — An Indiana inventor says he has patented a casket which will save on cemetery space and let a man be buried standing up. Ernest E. Bauermeister, Fort Wayne, noting burial space is at a premium, says his vertical casket requires one-fifth the space of a conventional one.

The patent describes the casket as a cylinder of aluminum, its curved tapering top ending in a ring by which it can be lowered.

Fish Gives Sports Award In Memory of Messinger

An athletic award in the memory of Lt. Gen. Edwin J. Messinger was offered to Kingston Post, 150, American Legion, Saturday night during the annual installation ceremonies at the Post Home, 18 West O'Reilly Street.

Gen. Messinger was deputy commanding general of the Continental Army Command at Fort Monroe, Va. at the time of his death in January of this year. He was a life member of the local post.

The award, offered by former Congressman Hamilton Fish, was made in person as the ex-congressman, who recently transferred his membership from Millbrook to Post 150, spoke briefly and joined in congratulations to the new officers.

The appearance of Fish was one of the many highlights of the evening, topped off with the formal installation of the new slate under the supervision of Thomas Bohan. The Rev. Clarence E. Brown, Post chaplain, assisted.

Albert O. Sonnenberg, outgoing commander, was presented with a past commander's pin by the Rev. Mr. Brown. The returning commander pledged his support to the new slate of officers.

Bohan substituted for James F. Marquitt of Prattville, State Legion vice-commander, who was taken ill en route to the installation rites.

Eugene B. Carey, former mayor of Kingston, was toastmaster. Among the others attending were Mayor and Mrs. John J. Schwab.

Those installed were: Paul C. Gardner, commander; Robert V. Delaney, Charles M. King, John C. Kuehn, vice-commanders; Irwin J. Thomas, adjutant; Albert O. Sonnenberg, assistant adjutant and trustee for three years; John F. Quigley, treasurer; the Rev. Clarence E. Brown, chaplain; Harford S. Shultz, Jr., sergeant-at-arms; Ferdinand A. Bayona, historian; Charles L. Culver, service officer; Meyer Kaplan, welfare officer and Frank T. Roedel, athletic officer. Members of the executive committee also installed were William F. Hanley, George C. Heppner, Joseph E. Sills Jr. and Raymond W. West.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

Planning Board Discusses Local Apartment Sites

NEW PALTZ — At the recent meeting of the New Paltz Village Planning Board, several members of the Village Board were present to discuss plans for new apartments.

The new plans for the Malcolm Brill property, although corrected in some ways from the earlier plans, still needed many corrections. Driveways were not scheduled two feet from adjoining property; walks from the building to parking lots was not designated; not all units were listed in each building, and enough footage for backyards was not listed.

The board felt that a better job of planning the layout could be done, and decided to have the builders arrange for further discussion before the board could give their approval. The Comb's Garden Apartments on Church Street, although better in the planning stages, the third stage, a unit to be constructed on a slope, was questioned as well as the entrance suggested. Here again the board felt that better plans could be made and a meeting with the Moorehouse Jr. is spending a 10-day leave from the U.S. Army with them.

Teeners Injured

Two teenagers were injured in a one-car accident Monday afternoon on Route 212 east of Woodstock. The driver was cited for a traffic violation. Howard Andrew France, 19, of Saugerties, the driver, was taken to Kingston Hospital where he was treated for left knee and forehead injuries. Judith Ann Montano, 18, also of Saugerties, a passenger in the car, suffered left knee cuts. State police at the Lake Katrine substation said that France said he was driving west on Route 212 when the front of his vehicle started to shimmy. They said the vehicle crossed the highway, struck guard posts and went down an embankment. France was issued a summons for failure to keep right.

Tender Touch Is All-Important To Baby's Future

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Tender, loving touching may be one of the most important things you can do for a baby.

His soft skin is perhaps the part of the body by which he does his first great learning about his strange outside world, a psychiatrist said today.

And the skin-learning, or lack of it, apparently can be important in how the baby grows up, said Dr. Sidney Cohen of Los Angeles.

Cohen is chief of psychiatric service at Wadsworth Hospital in Los Angeles and a professor at the University of California at Los Angeles.

It's generally considered that lack of a mother, or good substitute motherly care, may have serious and lifelong impact on a child's character, he told the American Medical Association. This is known as maternal deprivation — even by a real mother who is cold or detached — and is a complex matter, he said.

Cohen focused upon just one aspect of it — little or no skin stimulation.

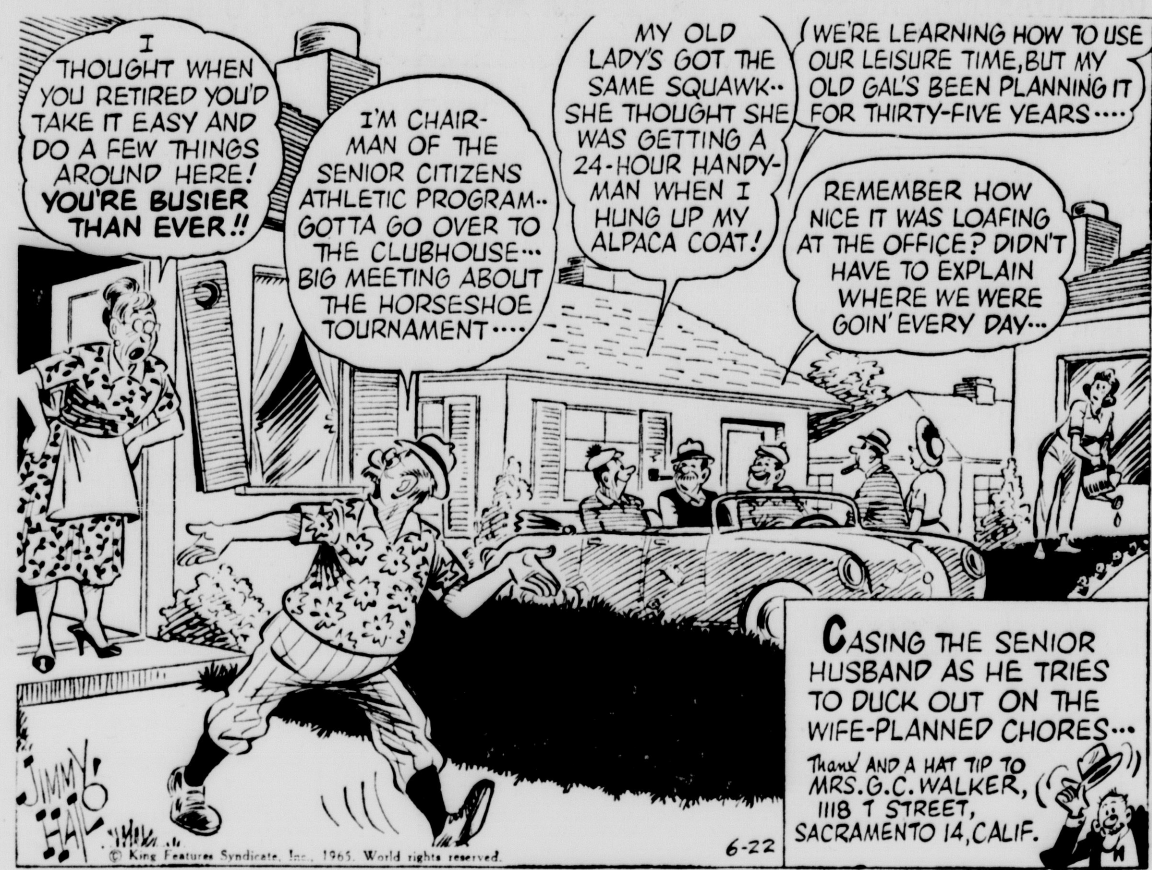

For one thing, he said, the nerve endings for touch, temperature and pain are the first to develop insulating sheaths — long before the infant develops effective nerves for hearing or seeing.

Skin contacts are the first sole means "of communicating security and affection, a need so great or even more important than the feeding process," Cohen said. "It is evidently relaxing and pleasurable to the infant to be stroked, cuddled and massaged."

What a child feels, from all senses, during the first six months of life "may have its greatest impact upon the child's evolving personality and physiology," he said.

Children reared in an orphanage, kept clean and well-fed but rarely handled, weren't considered to have fared as well, mentally and emotionally, as babies reared in a prison nursery by their own mothers, Cohen said, citing a study by other researchers.

Vacation Is Possible For Assembly in Pa.

HARRISBURG (AP)—A two-week vacation for the Pennsylvania General Assembly loomed as a possibility today to give legislative leaders an opportunity to fight the battle of the budget behind closed doors.

The thinking among the leaders now is that little else will be accomplished as Democrats and the Republican Scranton Administration officials try to resolve their wide differences over spending in the 1965-66 fiscal year.

So they are planning tentatively to call a recess during the first two weeks in July to give the membership the break they have been clamoring for and to provide the setting for deliberations without the crush of other business.

Democrats formally opened the battle Monday, introducing their own general appropriation bill and a new plan for distribution of tax surpluses to public schools.

Today in History

Today is Tuesday, June 22, the 173rd day of 1965. There are 192 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1940, France signed an armistice with Germany — in the same railroad car in which Germany had capitulated in 1918.

On this date: In 1812, Napoleon ordered his army to attack Russia.

In 1815, Napoleon was forced to abdicate. He went into exile on the island of Elba.

In 1937, Joe Louis became world heavyweight boxing champion.

In 1941, Nazi forces invaded Russia.

In 1946, two P80s made the first jet-propelled air mail flight.

Ten years ago — Robert Stevens resigned as Secretary of the army.

Five years ago — American scientists scored a new first in space by launching two instrument satellites, piggy-back fashion.

One year ago — Premier Nikita Khrushchev received a diplomatically correct, but cool, reception when he arrived in Sweden.

Poisoned by Alcohol

KUWAIT (AP) — Alcohol poisoning has killed 35 people and sent more than 150 others to the hospital in the last six months.

Police say many of the cases drank too much eau de cologne. Parliament banned the sale of alcoholic beverages two months ago, contending that they were a temptation to the young and an offense against Moslem principles. Bootlegging has been thriving since.

TV Reviews and Best Bets

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The question: Why is a 53-year-old man with a thriving 20-year-old daytime program and a fortune shrewdly invested in everything from soft drinks to cattle, willing to spend a long, hot summer as host of a vacation-time television program?

Art Linkletter's "Houseparty" is a daytime institution. His new assignment is CBS' old "Talent Scouts," which will emerge tonight for another exposure in the network's summer sun.

"Well," began Linkletter with a confident grin, "I've had an idea for a long time that television needed an evening program built around real human interest. I talked to CBS about it and we developed an idea — why not try it out on 'Talent Scouts' this summer. And if it goes, who knows what then?"

The title has been around for a long time — Arthur Godfrey presided over the show for seven years. Linkletter insisted that he is about to do something really different with the old show. One thing undeniably is new. He has moved its production base to Hollywood and the official title now is "Hollywood Talent Scouts."

"We're still primarily interested in young professional talent," Linkletter said, "but we're going to present stars, too, and we'll use them in a variety of ways."

CBS News achieved a television scoop of sorts by getting presidential assistant McGeorge Bundy to participate in a "Dialogue" with five professors on the Viet Nam situation. As it turned out Monday night, five professors — three of them against the administration position — were about four too many for good talk.

Far from being illuminating, the hour radiated confusion. It would have been infinitely more interesting had Eric Severid assumed the role of a devil's advocate and tossed the anti-administration arguments on Viet Nam to Bundy for rebuttal.

Ida Mae Sutton, one of 4200 Telephone Service Representatives, describes her job.

"I think 'yes' is the nicest word
I can say to a telephone customer."

"Can you have my phone installed on Wednesday?" Or "Can you arrange to have my daughter's name listed in the telephone book?" Customers ask us lots of questions on all sorts of telephone subjects so we have to be familiar with every facet of the telephone business. Here in the business office we try to see every problem from the customer's point of view. And that's what I like about my job. I like letting my customers know that there are plenty of people here at the phone company who are really concerned about giving good telephone service."

Desegregation Voted In Houston by 1967

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—While about 2,000 Negroes attended a rally calling for immediate integration of all grades, Houston public school trustees voted Monday night for complete desegregation by 1967.

The schools now are integrated through the fifth grade and would have completed grade-a-year desegregation in 1971.

Trustees voted Monday night for complete desegregation by 1967.

A loud but orderly crowd gathered in Emancipation Park to hear civil rights leaders urge immediate total desegregation.

Dear Abby . . .

What Next?

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The woman who "talked to her plants" and made them grow is not ready for the booby hatch. There is definitely something to it. Plants not only respond to the right "language," they are affected by music. This is far from a new development. For years the Carnation milk people have had music piped into their barns to keep their cows content.

CLARA IN PHOENIX
DEAR CLARA: Are you pulling my leg, or under-wise?

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is a 17-year-old high school dropout. And it's not that she didn't have the brains to graduate. She was just lazy. She's very pretty and has always been very mature (physically) for her age. But she's spoiled and selfish and emotionally immature. She wants to get married. The boy is 22. He is a nice enough boy who has a steady job, but he's just a kid. My husband is all for her getting married. He says, "Let her. It will grow her up in a hurry." I say she isn't ready to accept the responsibilities of marriage and, if she got married, it wouldn't last a year. Can you give me some good arguments on my side?

ONE AGAINST TWO
DEAR ONE: Marriage is not a kindergarten where wide-eyed, immature adolescents learn to "grow up" in a hurry. It's a difficult school of experience for even the most mature and aware. Lazy, self-centered girls who turn to marriage in order to escape the realities of life learn all too soon that they have jumped from the frying pan into the fire. Let her "grow up" first.

DEAR ABBY: My mother died nine years ago, and my father has lived alone in the house next door to me ever since. My problem is how to get him to let me clean his house. There are only my husband and myself so I have lots of free time. The house is so dirty I get upset every time I go over there, and I go every day. I want so much to give that house a good cleaning, but my father says he likes everything just the way it is. I don't know how much longer I can stand going over there, Abby. It's too filthy for words. You are my last resort. What can I do?

D IN DELAWARE
DEAR D: A mentally sound person does not live in filth for nine years. Your father could be emotionally disturbed. For goodness sake, get him to a doctor for a thorough checkup and give his house a thorough cleaning.

DEAR ABBY: What's all the ruckus about women wearing pants? I used to live in Lancaster, California, and anyone who went downtown in a dress was out of her ever-lovin' mind. Why? Because the wind blows there like there's no tomorrow, and who wants to give a grade review of the latest in underwear? Not me! We're now stationed in Panama, where it's hot and muggy and windy. Most of the women down here wear dresses. But tell me which looks worse — nearly topless dresses, transparent dresses, skirts with blouses half in and half out, or nicely fitted slacks with a neat, loose over-blower? I've asked my husband how he felt about my wearing pants, and his response was, "As long as you're comfortable, it's okay by me."

Albany Changes Money Measures

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Money measures, one to increase minimum salaries of public school teachers and another to authorize a $200-million bond issue to expand parks, have been changed hurriedly by the houses of the fading Legislature.

The Senate Monday approved unanimously and without debate the measure calling for increases to public school teachers by $400 to $1,200 a year.

The measure, which went to the Assembly, sets minimum pay for first-year teachers in districts that employ fewer than eight teachers at $4,900, an increase of $400.

In districts employing eight or more teachers, pay would be increased from $4,500 to $5,200. Teachers with at least 12 years of service would be raised from $6,800 to $8,000.

The Assembly overwhelmingly approved and sent to the Senate a bill authorizing the bond issue to expand parks and other recreational facilities throughout the state. The program, recommended by Rockefeller, will require final approval by the voters in the November 1966 election.

In other legislative action Monday:

—The Senate rejected protests of the State Thruway Authority and approved, 32-19, a bill to legalize billboards in some city areas along the 450-mile toll road.

The Assembly approved, 118-16, a bill that would require a mandatory minimum sentence of three months or a fine of $250, or both, for persons convicted of sounding false fire alarms.

—The Senate approved two measures dealing with legal counsel for criminal defendants — a Republican-drawn bill that would require all counties to adopt a system to supply counsel to criminal defendants who could not afford to hire their own and a Democratic bill that would provide state aid to help counties pay for furnishing such legal assistance.

Board May Plan To Rid Rochester Of Tree Insects

The monthly Highway Department meeting of the Town of Rochester was held June 16, highlighted by a lengthy discussion on the extensive damage to trees caused by the gypsy moth.

Supervisor Franklin Kelder reviewed information he had received from the State Department of Conservation, in regard to the spraying control program which has now been completed in Ulster County.

Councilman Morris Sims spoke in regard to the termination of the local ambulance service. All board members present agreed in organizing a volunteer ambulance service, should be supported.

Highway Superintendent Richard Gray reported that work on the project of rerouting the Upper Cherrytown Road is nearing completion.

Supervisor Kelder reported that work has been started at the site of the construction of the new Millbrook Bridge on the Mettacahtons Road. He also reported that the present bridge will not be closed to traffic until after July 4.

Reports Space Signals

BOCHUM, Germany (AP) — The Bochum space observatory said today it has been receiving signals since Monday from an unidentified space probe. It speculated they could be coming from a manned Soviet space vehicle or from one of the unmanned Russian Cosmos series.

The Soviet Union has announced the orbiting of 68 unmanned Cosmos satellites over the past two years.

Driver Jailed

A Poughkeepsie motorist was in Dutchess County Jail today in lieu of bail to face a hearing later on a charge of driving while intoxicated. John Beatty, 51, of 33 Tulip Street, was arrested Monday night on Route 9 by Trooper Jerry Pine of the Rhinebeck-Hyde Park substation.

Jersey Driver Is Hurt on Thruway, Given Summons

A New Jersey motorist was hospitalized and cited for a traffic violation after a two-car collision Monday afternoon on the northbound lane of the Thruway about four miles north of Kingston.

State police of the Thruway detail said that John Gillelan, 71, of Ridgewood, N. J., was stopped on the superhighway, apparently to seek proper directions, when his vehicle was struck in the rear and knocked off the shoulder by a car driven by Robert J. Brumaghin of Catskill RD 1. Gillelan was taken by Doctors' Ambulance to Benedictine Hospital where he was treated for head and back injuries. He was reported in fair condition today at the hospital.

Troopers said Brumaghin was to see his own doctor for possible back injuries. They issued Gillelan a summons for stopping on the Thruway pavement, returnable at a later date before Peace Justice Arthur Reilly, Town of Ulster.

Trooper E. A. Ceboris investigated.

Little Hope Is Held For Missing Divers

DEATH VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Rescue teams continued a round-the-clock search today for two divers missing in the uncharted depths of Devil's Hole, but officials held little hope that the pair would be found alive.

Ten fresh teams arrived late Monday night to relieve 10 divers who spent all Monday plunging in relays for David Rose, 20, and Paul Giancieri, 19, who failed to surface after a dive at midnight Sunday.

Additional divers from the Pacific Northwest and Los Angeles areas also have volunteered to aid in the search. But officials at Death Valley National Monument said there was little hope of recovering the victims.

Asks Confidence Vote
ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Premier George Papandreou asked Parliament Monday night for a vote of confidence in his center union government and its domestic and foreign policies.

Debate on the motion is expected to start Wednesday. After the vote, Parliament will recess for the summer.

Papandreou's majority of more than 40 seats assures him of victory.

Five Are Hurt As Vehicle Flips

Five Long Island people were injured, three of them seriously, when a south-bound car flipped over on the Thruway about four miles north of Catskill Monday. State Police reported the car flipped over three times before coming to rest in the center mall.

Taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital were Louis Greenwald, 50, and his wife, Mayta, 54, of Long Beach, who were reported in serious condition. They suffered multiple fractures of the ribs and "aceractions." Also in serious condition is Lillian Kay, 60, of Masapeh, who suffered multiple fractures. Her husband, Benjamin, was treated and released. William Cohen, 52, was admitted in fair condition with chest injuries and lacerations.

State Police said the car, south-bound, went out of control about four miles north of Catskill, ran on the center mall and overturned.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Big government may prove a boon for the lone wolf businessman after all.

For years the entrepreneur, part of American folklore, has tended to look upon over-bigger government as one of the threats to his way of operating. Now he is finding that big government is making available to him production techniques and methods of doing business and fruits of its research which only it can afford to undertake.

Big government and also big business, with which the entrepreneur long has been at odds, are now seeking to revive the qualities which traditionally made the organizer, the risk-taker, and the controller of the essentially one-man enterprise, a prime force in developing the American economy.

One practical result is that government agencies are now the source for expert advice on everything from accounting procedures for small business to quality control on the production line.

The entrepreneur is the exact opposite of the typical corporation executive, the organization man. The lone operator runs his business with a tight control of all its aspects.

A government study of the lone wolf businessman describes him as a man who has the will to control, the freedom to think independently and the ruthlessness to do what is expedient, regardless of past ties or loyalties. It cites his ability to project his own experience into new situations, in which criteria do not yet exist, and to create his own standards for acceptable levels of accomplishment.

For years government borrowed techniques from business, to some extent because it was becoming so involved in business itself. But now that government has pushed into many new fields, both large and small businesses are finding many of its activities directly applicable to their own.

The Polaris submarine is an example cited by Sylvan Gollin, in charge of Walter Dornin Teague Associates' 20-year-old program of design and quality control development for the Navy's Bureau of Weapons.

He says that Polaris and other Navy projects have required research in all aspects of management to permit successful operation. Private organizations helped develop them. But by now the Navy has established standards and methods of control over production on its own, rather than depending on those of its suppliers.

Advisory and financial aid from government agencies are helping entrepreneurs enter new fields, found new enterprises. But Gollin contends that thanks to government techniques "new business will make fewer costly mistakes."

One-fourth of Europe's population (25 million persons) died in the plague known as the Black Death during the 14th century.

There Was Joy 20 Years Ago

Tracing the United Nations
Over Span of Two Decades

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — There has seldom if ever in the history of man been such a sense of joy, of new beginning, as there was for a little while in sunlit San Francisco 20 years ago.

That may seem absurd now after what has happened in the two decades since diplomats from the big and little nations allied against the Axis or Japan met in the California city April 25, 1945, to create the United Nations.

But the war with Germany was coming to a crashing end, with Japan to be taken care of soon. Then the world could learn from its mistakes and start down a fresh road.

The United Nations was to chart the road and it seemed unbelievable that after the disasters of two world wars man would be too stupid to learn a little.

That was a foundation, but not the only one, for the hope the world might be entering a new and civilized and reasonable day.

The United States, Britain, China, the Soviet Union and others for sheer survival had submerged their differences in order to fight together, and fight well, against a common enemy.

After this ability to work together in a terrible time, it didn't seem too much to hope the nations in the future might be willing to discuss their differences in an international forum instead of doing all over again what they had just been through.

True, the old League of Nations, set up in 1920, was supposed to have been just this kind of forum for peaceful settlements and yet it was a tragic failure, as World War II showed.

But the world a-coming with the United Nations could learn from the league and go on from there, or so it seemed, because something truly new had been added.

The United States, which had stood aloof from the League of Nations, had cast off its leaden mantle of isolationism and was to be one of the guiding forces of the United Nations. In short, when all the hopes and reasons were added together the success or failure of the United Nations would rest on one thing only: the good intentions of the members.

The dream of a new and different world didn't last long. It didn't even last until June 26, 1945, when 51 nations, after two months of discussion, signed the finished U.N. Charter.

By then it was becoming clear Stalin had abandoned his agreement about letting the countries of Eastern Europe have free elections after the war and was maneuvering to capture them as satellites.

But the most sobering realization was the big-power veto. The wartime partners trusted each other so little that they insisted when a big decision had to be made in the U.N. Security Council any one of the Big Five powers could kill it with a veto. The five were the United States, China, Britain, France and the Soviet Union.

But it was the veto which had helped destroy the League of Nations.

The United Nations was patterned in many ways after the old league. The latter had a council, where a veto could kill action, and an assembly. The United Nations had a security council and an assembly.

The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union all wanted the veto built into the U.N. Charter. President Harry S. Truman said later in his memoirs the Senate would never have approved U.S. membership in the United Nations without the power to veto actions by others.

In the years since 1945, with the United Nations growing to 114 members, there have been 110 vetoes, 103 by the Soviet Union. There have been wars, blockades and turmoil. But there has been no general war.

When the diplomats left San Francisco 20 years ago this week they still had hope. That hope hasn't died completely. But the sense of joy is long gone. There was no real new beginning.

And the hope that's left, such as it is, is shaky.

Wins Scholarship
Offered by Bank

Robert Stockli, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stockli of Gardiner has been awarded the State of New York National Bank scholarship to Ulster County Community College, Robert A. Denning, dean of students announced today.

Stockli, who graduated from Walkill Central High School in June 1964, is pursuing the AAS Degree at the Community College and has consistently distinguished himself in his academic endeavors. Stockli, majoring in the field of business with special emphasis in accounting, has completed one full year of study.

He has ambitions to transfer as a junior to a four-year college or university and continue his formal study for a bachelor's degree, after which he plans to become a certified public accountant.

In commenting on receiving the scholarship, Stockli said: "I am very pleased to have been selected for this scholarship award from The State of New York National Bank. It will be a significant help in continuing my further education."

In commenting on behalf of The State of New York National Bank A. Raymond Atkins, president, said: "We are delighted with the number of qualified candidates for this award and the committee of judges was very pleased to be able to select Robert Stockli as the winner. This is the second year that The State of New York National Bank has awarded this Scholarship, and we are hopeful that we will continue to be able to make this an annual event."

Candidates were judged, for the bank, by William E. Belser, local resident partner of the national accounting firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Company, Denning, dean of students, and Neil W. Whitehurst, director of the business curricula at the local college.

Another Chartered
Middletown Bus
Scheduled Sunday

The most recent chartered bus trip from Ulster County to Middletown State Hospital, sponsored by the Ulster County Association for Mental Health, occurred on one of the hottest days this year, and the wisdom of "taking the bus" was emphasized by the sharp contrast between the hot weather and the comfortable air-conditioned bus.

Dr. Hyman Pleasure, the director of Middletown State Hospital, has stated emphatically that visitors are an important part of the rehabilitation of the mentally ill. Therefore each rider on the bus can feel he or she is doing something to help restore mental health.

The next special bus will leave Kingston, from the Park Diner parking lot, next to the Governor Clinton Hotel, at 11:40 a. m., Sunday. Stops will be made in Rosendale at "The Elms" at 12 noon, and in New Paltz at 12:10 p. m. at the Grand Union parking lot on Route 32. Reservations are not necessary.

Further information can be obtained from Mrs. Edwin C. Shults, coordinator of the bus service for the Ulster County Association for Mental Health, Route 2, Box 30, Saugerties.

Quarter Million
Worth of Liquor
Ruined in Floods

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A quarter of a million dollars worth of liquor is going to be destroyed because of last week's floods.

The liquor, including imported whiskies, scotches, gins, wines and champagnes, is in flooded basement rooms of the liquor division of McKesson & Robbins, Inc.

The spirits must be destroyed under a court ruling of the early 1950s which states any bottled liquor covered by flood water is no longer fit for human consumption.

Leo S. Sullivan, general manager of McKesson & Robbins, said the bottles will be taken to a dump where agents of the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division of the U.S. Treasury will supervise their destruction under heavy rollers.

From Bricklayers

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller was one of only a few bricklayers working in this area Monday when he helped set in place the 3½-ton cornerstone for the $350-million South Mall Complex of state buildings.

Rockefeller was given a paid-up membership in Local 6 Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers Union, by Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson "so there'll be no question" of labor jurisdiction over his — Rockefeller's — trowel and mortar work on the cornerstone.

The governor's union, however, has been on strike here for nearly two weeks, and Monday, established picket lines, tying up about $250-million worth of construction.

The 36-acre project is expected to take about five years to complete.

Public May Not See the Best
Photographs of Mars for Months

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — There's a chance the best of the 18 to 21 photographs the U.S. spacecraft Mariner 4 takes of Mars July 14 may not be released to the public for weeks or even months.

A spokesman for Jet Propulsion Laboratory says scientists have agreed to immediate release of only the first three photographs, and possibly some others.

The rest of the historic pictures, which could show whether there are canal-like structures on the planet believed most likely to harbor extraterrestrial beings, may be withheld for detailed study and analysis.

Scientists Have Rights

"Our agreement with the scientists assigned to study the photographs gives them a proprietary right to scientific information, including the photographs, obtained by the spacecraft," said a spokesman for the laboratory, which built and is tracking Mariner 4 on its 325-million-mile voyage.

"So far they have agreed to release only the first three and possibly some others. We are hoping, however, that at least the best of the remainder can be released as fast as they are received and processed."

Pretor Journals

Scientists generally prefer to announce results of research in technical journals, not in the public press, and the spokesman said at least one member of the Mariner team of three wants to follow this procedure in releasing the photographs.

The first three pictures will not be the closest nor will they be taken at the best angle. The exact target areas are somewhat in doubt, depending on the time the camera is turned on. The camera will cover an area some 4,000 miles long, starting with either of two northern Martian deserts, Amazonis or Elysium, then sweep southward across the equator and over some of the dark areas bordering the southern polar cap.

Some scientists have speculated the dark areas are vegetation, fed by water from the polar caps, which seem to melt in summer.

Position of Cameras

The first pictures will be taken when the spacecraft is about 8,000 miles above the surface, with the camera pointing straight down. They are expected to picture surface markings as small as two miles in length or diameter, and could show whether the equatorial "canals" and city-like "oases" at their intersections, reported by some astronomers, are artificial structures.

Closest pictures will come at the end of the sequence, when the spacecraft will be about 6,000 miles high, but they will be at an angle.

Cape Cod Vacationers Will See Headliners At Playhouse There

DENNIS, Mass. — Nine plays, highlighted by three pre-Broadway try-outs, with famous stage and motion picture performers, will be presented at the Cape Playhouse here this summer, Charles Mooney, playhouse managing director, has announced.

The Playhouse, currently celebrating its 39th summer theatre season, will open July 3 with a new production of Kyle Crichton's comedy, "The Happiest Millionaire." Walter Pidgeon, who starred on Broadway in the original production, will head the cast. It will be directed by H. C. Porter.

The second week, starting July 12, will headline comedienne Eve Arden in Samuel Taylor's recent comedy, "Beekman Place." Featured in the cast will be Brooks West, who is Miss Arden's husband. During the week of July 12 Broadway and television actor Hans Conreid, last seen here in "Take Her, She's Mine," will appear in "Absence of a Cello," a recent comedy hit by Ira Wallach.

Beginning July 26 Anne Baxter and Gene Raymond will co-star in the playhouse's first pre-Broadway play, a comedy titled "Diplomatic Relations" by A. W. Lewis. One of the theatre's most distinguished actresses, Miss Baxter won an Academy Award for her motion picture role in "The Razor's Edge." In the early 1930's she was an apprentice in the Cape Playhouse theatre school.

Arthur Summer Long's comedy hit, "Never Too Late," which was first presented here as "Cradle and All" and subsequently went on to Broadway where it recently closed after more than 1,000 performances, will be staged the week of Aug. 2. The cast will be headed by Tom Ewell and Joan Bennett.

Departing from its policy of presenting straight plays, a full production of "Camelot," the musical hit by Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe will be staged beginning Aug. 9. A cast of Broadway dancers and singers, many from the New York and national companies, will be featured in the production.

The second pre-Broadway try-out, a comedy titled "The Frog Pond," which is now being cast, will be presented the week of Aug. 16. Following its engagement here the new play will open in Boston and then New York. The comedy is the work of Joyce Melvor.

Maurice Evans and Celeste Holm have been signed to appear the week of Aug. 23 in "Not Even in Spring," a comedy by Hugh and Margaret Williams, based on their British comedy hit, "The Grass Is Greener."

The ninth and final week, beginning Aug. 30 through Sept. 4, brings Darren McGavin in "Here Lies Jeremy Troy," a new, pre-Broadway comedy by John Sharkey. It will be directed by Tony Randall, the actor.

It was also announced that the American Academy of Dramatic Arts-Cape Playhouse summer training program will be held on the playhouse grounds for the ninth consecutive year.

Ten young actors have been awarded scholarships to participate in the program by the Raymond Moore Foundation. The non-profit organization owns and operates the Cape Playhouse.

Under the direction of Eleanor Cody Gould, the aspiring actors will appear in three children's plays as well as in their own productions. The children's plays, to be presented on Friday mornings at 10:30 a. m. include: "Cinderella," July 16; "Treasure Island," July 30; and "Beauty and the Beast," Aug. 20.

The Cape Playhouse, located on Route 6A, is the oldest summer theatre on Cape Cod and the third oldest in the country. Performances are held nightly, Monday through Saturday at 8:30 p. m. Matinees are presented on Wed. and Thurs. at 2:30 p. m.

McCulloughs Have Anniversary

Four social events were observed Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John F. McCullough of 223 Downs Street, Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. McCullough marked their 25th wedding anniversary. It was Mrs. McCullough's birthday, and Father's Day was observed.

It was also the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James Lynch, of Hazlet, N. J., who attended the social event with their children. Mr. Lynch is Mrs. McCullough's son.

Others attending the social affair were Mr. and Mrs. John McCullough, Jr., of Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCullough and family and several friends.

Language Teachers Feted

Four members of the Language Department at Kingston High School were honored at a recent party. They are Mrs. Mary Gendreau, Miss Judith Johnson, Mrs. William Theil and Edward Bernard.

Mrs. Theil, who is retiring from the teaching profession, was presented a gift in recognition of 14 years of service. She was responsible for organization of language program in the school.

A dinner-party was given at LeHerb's on Thursday, June 17th.

America's Family Table Classic: Meat Loaf To Attend Library Conference in Albany June 24-25

GLORIFIED MEAT LOAF

In stead of preparing meat loaf in the usual way, turn this favorite beef dish into a taste sensation. Fill the center of the meat loaf with herb-seasoned stuffing along with sauteed mushrooms and hard-cooked eggs. The perfect blend of flavors in the stuffing gives the meat loaf a mouth-watering aroma while it is baking.

Herb-Seasoned Meat Loaf
1 1/2 pound mushrooms, sliced
1 medium onion, minced
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 teaspoon bottled lemon juice
1 package herb-seasoned stuffing
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup snipped parsley
1/4 cup boiling water

2 eggs, beaten
2 pounds ground beef
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
2 hard-cooked eggs

Saute sliced mushrooms and onions in butter until tender. Add lemon juice, 2 cups herb-seasoned stuffing, pepper and parsley. Add enough boiling water so that mixture is moist.

Combine beaten eggs with the beef. Pack half of meat mixture into a buttered 10"x5"x3" loaf pan; spoon herb-seasoned stuffing mixture on top. Press 2 whole hard-cooked eggs into stuffing, top with rest of meat mixture. Bake in 400 degree F. oven for about 1 hour and 15 minutes. During last 15 minutes of baking garnish top of meat loaf with onion rings. Serves 8.

We The Women Spotting Mr. Milquetoast

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: When I married my husband two years ago I knew that his mother would be a problem. She can depress him so that he can't eat dinner. I can always tell when he has talked to her because he gets so irritable afterwards. He has been having some trouble with his job supervisor and last Sunday when he was telling her about it, she said, "Your brother would never take that from anybody." I'd like to see anyone try to treat him like that. He was so upset that night...

ANSWER: You want to resist her for him, don't you? It won't help. It's his battle. If you make it for him, he will only feel so ashamed that you could resist her where he could not that he'll start picking on you. Then he'll either start defending his mother or transfer his dependence on her opinions to your opinions.

Let me speak to him directly. Young husband, one of the most efficient ways to keep another person dependent on our opinions is to disparage him. As your mother did you.

By telling you that your brother wouldn't take what you take from a boss, what she said was, "You are an incompetent. You're a contemptible Caspar Milquetoast." And you fell for this opinion though this kind of disparaging accusation never expresses a genuine moral judgment of us but is used by dominators to maintain our dependence on their opinions by making us feel so weak, so useless and wrong that we dare not even question those opinions. It stands to reason doesn't it? How else could we keep another person under our thumb, under control by opinions except by making him feel such a wash-out that he dare not trust his own?

You know, we can always tell what an accuser is up to by the way his accusation makes us feel. If it makes us feel sobered, thoughtful but undiscouraged, then his accusation springs from the good will of genuine concern for our growth and our recognition of some shortcoming we need to overcome. But if his accusation leaves us feeling anxious, depressed and helpless, then we can be sure that it expresses ill will—the accuser's desire to build himself up as a much better person than we are

Episcopal Priest Dies

AMSTERDAM, N.Y. (AP) — The Rev. David C. Huntington, an Episcopal priest, died yesterday at the Mount Loretta Convalescent home. He was 92.

He was Arch Deacon of the Diocese of Western Michigan from 1913 to 1917.

During 44 years in the Albany Diocese, Father Huntington was rector of parishes in Mechanicville and Clifton Park. He previously served in Brooklyn, Syracuse and Watertown, N.Y., and Richmond, Indiana.

by making us feel like a nothing. We have to question the validity of the product of ill will. About the mother who's called us a Caspar Milquetoast, we have to think, "Maybe anyone who isn't a bully looks like Caspar to you. Maybe I'm not Caspar at all. Maybe you just see things crooked and I can't trust what you see."

HOUSE GUEST IN A BIG CITY

Q: I have been invited to spend two weeks with friends who live in a big city. This will be my first trip to the city and no doubt we will be doing a lot of sightseeing as well as eating out. I would like to know if I should pay my own way at these times? I am perfectly willing to do so as I know this can be quite an expense to my hosts, who are by no means wealthy, but I don't want to do anything that will embarrass or offend them. Will you please advise me?

A: You should at least offer to pay your own way, but don't embarrass your hosts by insisting on this if they refuse to let you.

Q: My fiancé and I are going to be married at a private ceremony, but my parents are giving a large reception for us at a hotel later that day. Will you please tell me how the invitations should be worded?

A: The invitations to the reception would be worded as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith request the pleasure of your company at the wedding reception of their daughter Mary Elizabeth and

Mr. Jonathan Blake Saturday, the thirty-first of July at four o'clock Ritz Hotel

Bread - and - Butter Plates

Q: Will you please tell me if it is necessary when butter is served with dinner, to have bread - and - butter plates, or could I just put the butter in a butter dish on the table with a butter knife and pass it to anyone who would like it.

A: When butter is served, having butter on the bread-and-butter plates before guests are seated is certainly much better than passing it around and having them put it on their dinner plates.

Youth's Moral Responsibility, Rabbi Bloom's Theme for Grads

Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom of Temple Emanuel highlighted Sunday afternoon baccalaureate ceremonies for the Kingston High School Class of 1965 with his address dealing with the moral responsibility of the present young generation.

Invocation of the program was led by the Rev. John Mulligan of St. Joseph's Church. The Rev. John Gilmore of Riverview Baptist Church led the youths in a scripture reading. After Rabbi Bloom's speech, the Rev. C. Pershing Hunter of St. James Methodist Church offered the benediction.

In his speech, Rabbi Bloom attacked the type of thinking that fosters a "get rich quick" doctrine as the only criterion for success. He said the only real measure of happiness can be found after intense self-examination.

Text of Address

Following is the text of Rabbi Bloom's baccalaureate address: "No one wants to be in this place even if it is cool. There was a time when intelligent people were really interested in speeches but today so many million words are dispensed by radio and television that one is glad at times to welcome the wordless silence. The baccalaureate of course stems from the days when the Bachelors Degree was awarded in religious institutions and the old tradition of the religious service upon graduation persists.

"I am glad to see that in accordance with the interpretation of the U. S. Constitution, and the sensibilities of the various creeds here represented, that this gathering convenes in a non-sectarian hall. In accordance with the spirit of the age, Catholics, Protestants and Jews in cooperation with the Superintendent of Schools deemed it wise to gather here for our service.

Never Lost God
"In casting about for something to say which might have some meaning, one word kept cropping up again and again. Responsibility. I am not trying to say that young people are not responsible or to indict anybody unless it is to indict the whole of civilization. When we believed in a universe of which our world was the center, and the kind of a God who was to be pleased or displeased by some magic word, we somehow seemed to feel more responsible.

"Today with astronauts and cosmonauts walking in space, as one of the commentators said, we scarcely know what time and space is. But we do remember the words of John Glenn when asked satirically whether he found God up there, replied 'I never lost him.'

"I am afraid many of us have lost him or have lost him in a sense that we do not make real contact in prayer. This impersonal kind of belief that we have is much like the hunch of someone at a race track, or is that a naughty word? Be it is not that at all.

"Belief has to do with a conviction that there is a being who wishes us to do a job and it does not much matter whether 'somebody' up there likes me. What matters is that we have enormous choices that have to be made not by us alone but by those we influence. I do not like what is happening in South Asia and I have said so; you have a right to differ with me any way you wish but, if I have a conscience which does not mean what I am supposed to feel but what I really believe in then I have a responsibility at least to commence the job of hacking away at a point of view and a kind of life which I would like to see.

Of Critical Importance
"Of course if I am a rational person trying to be fair it is not enough to have an open mind, because it may be open at both ends, that is, I may have no principles and take a point of view of one kind and the next minute another kind — it is only all right if we have a change of mind and heart.

"Boys and girls, I am just saying today a very simple thing with many words. You are important and what you do and those who think like you do are of critical importance. I am saying nothing new but whatever your religion may be you must believe if your religion means anything, that you are given a mind and spirit and body to use the best way you can. "I think the greatest weakness of our age is the conviction that individuals, you and me, mean nothing and can do very little unless we are big wheels. I am not sure what a big wheel is and have been trying to find out for a long while; it probably means the man who makes the biggest salary, someone who, however he was able through his talents and ability perhaps, to utilize his qualities.

Not An Easy Job
"I am not cynical, I do not believe that people with big salaries and big positions are naturally unqualified, but we have to be qualified for something else. How many of us are qualified to be people?

"With all due deference to the sheep, an extremely useful animal, most of us want the wool pulled over our eyes and follow blindly. What I mean by responsibility is the kind of life we live, the kind of people we are, our duty to grow in accordance with our own capacities.

"Nobody wants to be a square, nobody wants to be 'way out'; in a sense we really ought to find out who we are and be ourselves and that is not an easy job. But, having found ourselves we ought to, it seems to me, not give a day's work for a day's pay, as the saying goes, but give a life of service and fulfillment in return for the gifts we have.

"Unfortunately too many of us today have not this kind of responsibility. We are not making our own choices even though they are very possible, we are not even trying to make our own choices. We have the power to destroy ourselves, to be manipulated by the power structure to fall into a comfortable slot. The only thing I would say to you is, in its true sense, means that the really religious person is attuned to sounds of injustices, ugliness, viciousness and human hurt, an octave higher than the irreligious person, and our responsibility is to get tuned in to our job as nearly as possible.

"Responsibility means finding out what we are given to do. We will probably make mistakes in the effort, but that's alright, so long as they are honest mistakes. Letting someone else do our job, make our decisions, express our politics, is irresponsible. Your responsibility is to yourself and if you are really responsible to yourself at best you must be responsible to your fellow man."

The program was held at Community Theater.

Capitol News in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee has voted against a House-backed proposal to give Congress the final say in closing military bases and facilities.

The action by a 10-3 vote Monday came as the Senate group approved a bill to authorize $1,725,478,000 for construction at military installations. This is $227,720,000 less than the House voted.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., said the Senate committee removed the veto on base closings because it considered this primarily an executive responsibility.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House approved by voice vote Monday a bill to make assassination of the president, vice president or acting president a federal crime punishable by death.

The legislation sent to the Senate also would apply to the president-elect and vice president-elect between their election and inauguration.

It provides for penalties up to life imprisonment for kidnapping, assault or conspiracy involving the life or safety of the officials, and permits the government to offer reward of up to $100,000 for information concerning violations.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department says all the 53,400 American military men in South Viet Nam will be eligible for $55 a month in combat pay, unless they are specifically excepted by local commanders.

Until now, combat pay only went to those in Viet Nam who spent at least six days a month in areas where they were subject to hostile fire.

Monday's announcement said the revised policy would make special combat pay available to men injured or wounded by hostile fire, explosion of mines or other hostile action in the Dominican Republic.

Montgomery Ward combined the nine-hit pitching of Bill Botsakos plus some timely hitting to beat the Lions Club, 5-2, in a City League game last night at Dietz Stadium.

ILLIARD ROOM PROPRIETORS ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA 1965 WORLD POCKET BILLIARD CHAMPIONSHIP

JOE BALSIS

Billiard Champ Balsis Here for Exhibitions

Gentleman Joe Balsis, the World Pocket Billiard Champion, who is in town for two 150-point exhibitions today once retired for almost 17 years.

Balsis, now 43, captured the Junior World championship at age 12 and then put the cuestick aside for 17 years!

In his first Kingston exhibitions, Balsis was scheduled to meet Dave Holly this afternoon at 2:30 and tonight at 7:30 he goes against Buster Ferraro, both matches at Ferraro's Golden Cue.

When Balsis emerged from his 17-year retirement, he opened a five-table room in Minersville, Pa. In early 1964 his game was "surveyed" by officials of the Pennsylvania Chapter of the Billiard Room Proprietors Association and recommended to the B.R.P.A.'s headquarters in New York City. He was invited to the World Championship in March of 1964 and, despite early nervousness, placed seventh in the 15-player field.

Jackson Nips Osteen In Mets-LA Duel, 1-0

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Mets aren't sentimental after all.

They were filled with sentiment for six innings Monday night. Then Joe Christopher went and spoiled it with a bunt single leading off the seventh inning.

Billy Cowan made it even worse in the ninth inning when he slammed his first homer of the season, giving the Mets a 1-0 victory over the National League - leading Los Angeles Dodgers and Claude Osteen.

The triumph came exactly one year after Jim Bunning pitched a perfect game against the Mets for the Philadelphia Phillies, who also were in first place at the time.

The Mets appeared to be staging a fitting observance of the first anniversary, if not with a perfect game, at least with a no-hitter. But Christopher broke up the celebration, and all the Mets wound up with was their second consecutive 1-0 Monday night victory.

It was one week ago that the Mets failed to hit Cincinnati's Jim Maloney for 10 innings before Johnny Lewis' leadoff homer in the 11th beat the Reds 1-0. While tossing sentiment out to left field, the Mets recorded another landmark along the way to immortality. The victory enabled them to compile a two-game winning streak against the Dodgers for the first time in their four-year existence.

Losses 2-Hitter
Osteen allowed the Mets only two hits while the Dodgers managed just three off Al Jackson, who never had beaten them before.

Jackson, however, allowed only one runner to reach second base after the Dodgers failed to score with the bases loaded and two out in the first inning.

Jim Gilliam doubled, and Jackson walked Wes Parker and Jim Lefebvre. The lefty ended the threat by throwing out Jeff Torborg on a grounder. The only other hits of him were singles by Parker in the sixth and Osteen in the eighth.

In the only other game, Lee Maye's two-run triple in the seventh inning snapped a 1-1 tie and sparked Houston to a 6-2 triumph over Philadelphia. Maye, who earlier singled across a run, drove in Bob Lillis and Joe Morgan, who had walked.

Dick Farrell brought his record to 5-2, holding the Phillies to six hits as well as driving in two runs with an eighth-inning single. Wes Covington homered for the Phillies in the ninth.

Mazurek Signs With Grid Skins

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins won a bidding contest with the Minnesota Twins today when Fred Mazurek of the University of Pittsburgh decided to play professional football instead of baseball.

Mazurek, 5-foot-11, 192-pound quarterback, was signed by the National Football League team as a free agent for an unannounced bonus. The Redskins would say only that he signed for "considerably more than is normally given a free agent."

With Washington, Mazurek will be used as a flanker back and defensive back.

Voted the most valuable player on the Pitt baseball team the past season, Mazurek hit .460 this spring as an outfielder. He was drafted by Minnesota in the recent free agent draft conducted by organized baseball.

Player Donates 'Open' Prize to USGA

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Gary Player, a black-clad little South African with a flair for the dramatic, deftly etched his name among a select list of golf's immortals and said that was enough, he had all he wanted, the money wasn't important.

"The money is immaterial — the honor is the thing," Player said Monday, after winning the U.S. Open Golf Championship and immediately turned his $25,000 check over to the U.S. Golf Association.

His three-stroke victory over Australian Kel Nagle in the 18-hole playoff made him the first foreign winner in 45 years and only the third man ever to sweep the four big prizes of professional golf — the U.S. and British Opens, the PGA and the Masters.

He now stands with Gene Sarazen and Ben Hogan at the pinnacle unattained by any others, the legendary figures of another era or the giants of today.

The forgotten man in golf's

Big Three, Player reassured his right to a spot in that company in overwhelming fashion. Arnold Palmer has yet to win the PGA. Jack Nicklaus has yet to win the British Open.

"I have made most of my money and won most of my golfing fame in this country," Player said in announcing his intention to turn the check over to the USGA.

Felt Obligation
"I feel I owe this country a great deal. I feel it is my duty to do something for this country and for golf."

"So I'm turning the check over to Joe Dey (executive director of the USGA) and asking him to give $5,000 to the Cancer Fund. My mother died of cancer. The rest, I would like to see funneled into junior golf in this country."

He gave $2,000 to his caddie, Frank Pagel, 16. The actual prize money was $25,000, but the USGA put another $1,000 into the pot for both Player and Nagle after they tied at the end of 72 holes at 282 and the 18-hole playoff went into effect.

Player leaped into command at the start, taking a birdie 4 while the 44-year-old Australian bogeyed the first hole of the vastly frustrating 7,191 - yard Bellerive Country Club course.

Player ran in birdie putts of 35 feet each on the next two holes, went 2-up and, for all intents and purposes, it was over. Nagle was never even again.

The close-trotting Australian, who forced the tie when Player blew a three-stroke lead with three holes to play the day before, wrecked his chances with a shattering double bogey on the fifth.

Drive Hits Woman
His drive hooked far to the left, into the gallery crowning a small hill, struck a woman in the head and bounded into the rough.

"When we walked up, the lady was lying there," Player said. "I did that once in South Africa. It can make you sick. I didn't want to concentrate on the next shot."

"Kel said, 'I feel awful, Gary, and I said, 'so to I.' 'I feel it next shot.' Nagle's next shot also

Player said. "It was like a butcher shop."

Finished With Caution
Gary had a five-stroke advantage at the turn. He held it, playing his usual brand of conservative, control golf, until the last two holes when he took cautious bogeys.

Player said he now plans to return to South Africa to be with his wife and five children, including 15 - day - old Theresa, whom he hasn't seen.

"I feel I can now cut down my travel and spend more time with my family," he said. "I love golf very much, but I love my children more."

"Now I can pick what I want to do. I don't have to be rushing off to Australia, rushing off to Spain, rushing off to Mexico. I can hunt and fish and ride and be with my family."

"I can pace myself, choose my tournaments as Hogan used to do."

"I wanted desperately to win this one. I wanted it more than anything else in my life. I've worked hard for it, too. I'm 29 years old, and I've traveled more than a million miles."

"This was the most wonderful day of my life. But now I want to be with my family."

Yankee Shadow Freshman Filly Winner at Big M

MONTICELLO — Two-year-olds held the spotlight Monday at Monticello Raceway when a field of eight freshmen fillies battled in the featured fourth race. After the smoke had cleared, John Schmigel displayed a highly promising miss in Yankee Shadow as he reined her to an easy two length victory in 2:08.3.

In four previous starts, the chunky little lassie hadn't finished worse than third with three seconds. But tonight, she wasn't to be denied and posted a wire to wire triumph. Schmigel sent her to the front at the start and she was never seriously challenged.

Owned by John J. and Geraldine L. Nittolo of Lakewood, N. Y., Yankee Shadow is a bay daughter of Yankee Hanover and the Dominion Brattian Mare, Grattian's Filly. In winning the first race of her life, she returned $3.30, 2.60 and 2.50 across the board as the heavily backed favorite.

The Idiot Second
Finishing second to Yankee Shadow was the Idiot, Russell Dunn driving, while Honey Tape Scotch was third with Ken Huebsch in the seat.

Tonight's 5 and 6 daily double paid $37.30 when George Sadowsky won the first behind Homestretch Spot and then Don Niccum did likewise in the second with John's Joy.

Tonight's twin double at the Mighty M paid $3,231.90. Hank won the fifth, John's Boy the sixth, Honor Key the seventh and Dodge Time the eighth in setting up a 1-5-2-3 combination.

Adios Dies, Was Pacing Champ
WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — Adios, a great harness race horse and an even greater stud, died today at nearby Meadowlands farm.

The might standardbred who sired harness racing's greatest champions, died from laminitis — a congestion of small blood vessels in his feet — and from old age. He was 25, comparable to 85 for human beings.

Adios' offspring won more than $14.5 million.

Callanan Mets Gain 11-2 Win
Don Fisher walloped two home runs and a double and the Callanan Road Improvement Mets remained unbeaten in the E-osun Legion Little league with an 11-2 triumph over 3 Brothers Egg Farm, knocking that club out of second place.

Wayne Wells aided in the attack with two doubles and a single. Bill Gray doubled for the losers.

Winner Garry Piccoli allowed four hits, walked eight and fanned five. Jim Wood lost it.

Eagles Decision Jays Squad, 6-1
Barry Diffley hit a home run and the Eagles scored a 6-1 win over the Jays in a Jaycee Little League game.

Doug Clancy did his best for the losers, getting three doubles in as many trips. However, he was touched for two hits each by winner Don Williams, Craig Murray and Bob Darling. One of Murray's safeties was a double.

Ramsey Defeats Rondout Bank,
Six straight hits in the second inning enabled Charles Ramsey Corp. to beat Rondout National Bank, 12-3, in an American Little league game.

Big blows of the frame were a triple by Dan Jordan and Bob Marello's double. Terry Davis doubled home two runs in the sixth for the winners.

Chris Schiek hit a triple and Steve Hogan a double for the losers.

The $12,200-race will be the fifth in a series of 10 for the U.S. Road Racing Championship for drivers and manufacturers.

Only 30 cars will start in the 87-lap event, won last year by Hall, of Midland, Tex.

Time trials Saturday will eliminate 29 cars from the point-scoring race. The 29, however, will compete in a 20-lap consolation on the 2.3-mile tear-shaped track.

Hall, who drives a Chaparral II, is trailing George Follmer of Pasadena, Calif., by five points in the 1965 championship point-scoring race. Follmer, also entered in Sunday's event, has 33 points. He drives a Lotus Porsche.

Player Rewards Caddy With $265
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Young Frank Pangel lost a night's sleep but was pretty well paid for it. Like $2,000.

That was the prize South Africa's Gary Player gave his 16-year-old caddy after winning the U.S. Open Golf Championship Monday, believed to be the most ever given a caddy.

"I'll spend part of it on a motorcycle and put the rest away to go to college," Pangel said.

Charter's 834 3rd in Nation
Jake Charter of Poughkeepsie recorded the third best individual series in the country during the 1964-65 season with a hefty 834.

According to final standings released by the American Bowling Congress, the triple by Charter was topped only by an 837 by Jim Schroeder of Ottawa, Ohio and an 836 by Bobby Cooper of Dallas. Schroeder's big series was compiled on three games of 279, an ABC triplicate record.

Jim Torelli and Bob Quinn of Newburgh were fifth high in the two-man series, hitting 1489. Another Newburgh pair—Joe Shier and George Chairmonte—finished sixth with 1480. The leaders with 1514 were Tony Handley and Ken Hillier of Amarillo, Texas.

Torelli and Quinn had a two-man game of 544, good for fourth in that phase. Leaders were Ray Bluth and Dick Weber of St. Louis with 558. Shier and Chairmonte were 10th with a 532 solo.

Top Series 3532
Top five-man team series was a 3532 by Strachota Milshore of Milwaukee. Cascone Construction of East Paterson, N. J. was second with 3522.

Best series for a four-man team was 2831, made by Skousen Tax Service of Anaheim, Calif. Top Score Maintenance of Anaheim was second with 2807. In the four-man division, the top ten scores were compiled by teams from Anaheim.

The high three-man series was turned in by Eli's Tap of Milwaukee. Serb Hall Stars of Milwaukee was second with 2142.

West Hamburgers of Milwaukee rolled a 1288 solo game and Bluemound Bowl of the same city had 1263 effort.

Anaheim bowlers led the four-man individual efforts with Skousen Tax Service hitting a 1008 and Top Score Maintenance getting a 1005. High three-man game was Eli's Tap of Milwaukee with 797.

Has Pins Removed
NEW YORK (AP) — Two pins have been removed from Ron Hunt's left shoulder and the New York Mets' second baseman, sidelined since May 11, may be able to rejoin the club in mid-August.

Dr. Peter LaMotte, who performed the second operation on Hunt's injured shoulder Monday, said the infielder will undergo physical therapy prior to starting workouts.

LaMotte also performed the first operation after Hunt suffered a shoulder separation in a baseline collision with Phil Gagliano of St. Louis.

Jacksonville Blows Game to Syracuse

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jacksonville started its International League game against Syracuse with luck on its side — but it didn't last long.

The Suns scored three runs in the first inning to take a 3-0 lead Monday night — and did it on just one hit, a single, Syracuse was as helpful to Jacksonville as possible, committing three errors, a balk and a walk.

But the luck ran out for Jacksonville shortly as Syracuse pushed across five runs in the fifth inning to take the lead and then hung on for an 8-3 victory over the Suns.

The contest was the only league game played Monday night. The Toledo-Buffalo game was rained out.

In exhibition contests, Toronto beat the Boston Red Sox of the American League 5-2 and Baltimore of AL whipped Rochester 8-6.

The big hit for Syracuse in the fifth inning was a three-run homer by Fred Hopke. This was followed shortly by a two-run single by pitcher Ed Rakow.

Raceway Softball Team Gains Win

MONTICELLO—The Monticello Raceway softball team, which posted a 25 and 1 record last year, continued its triumphant ways Monday at the Mighty M by winning its opening game of the season. The Mighty M ten wacked D's Restaurant of Monticello to the tune of 35 to 4.

The score indicated that of a football session rather than a softball battle but the Monticello team, made up of horsemen on the grounds, deserved every run. In fact, they posted as many hits as they did runs in blazing to the easy victory.

The men of the Mighty M teed off on the opposing pitcher for four homers, two of which were grand slammers by third baseman Frank Ingrassia and catcher Phil McGee.

Billy Mitchell was the winning pitcher, giving up only two earned runs.

AFL Officials Ponder Move to Philadelphia
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A committee of the American Football League arranged to meet with city officials today to discuss playing rights of an American League team in Philadelphia's proposed new stadium.

An AFL spokesman said Monday that further consideration of a team franchise in Philadelphia was "not feasible...until we clarify the stadium situation."

The league had awarded one franchise to Atlanta, but decided Monday not to expand there because the National Football League has an agreement to use that city's new stadium.

AFL Commissioner Joe Foss said Monday that the league still had proposals from four other cities, at $7.5 million apiece.

County Plans Director to Be Introduced 28th

Richard T. Ehler, recently appointed planning director for Ulster County, will be introduced at the next regular meeting of the executive board of the Planning Board to be held Monday, June 28 at 6:30 p. m. at Sky Top Restaurant on Route 28.

Ehler, whose appointment was confirmed by the Board of Supervisors on June 10, assumes his duties on July 1. He brings to this post five years of intensive experience in responsible positions in planning. He is a member of the American Institute of Planners. Ehler's last position was as associate planner for the Stark County Regional Planning Commission, Canton, Ohio. He is a graduate of Michigan State University with a degree in Planning. Ehler's military service was with Army Intelligence in Germany. He is married and has two children.

Invited to this dinner meeting are the chairman of the Board of Supervisors, the majority and minority leaders of the Supervisors and the members of the Industrial Development Committee, which was instrumental in establishing the Ulster County Planning Board.

Ralph Brach, chairman of the Planning Board, reports that 12 applicants were considered for the position, six were interviewed and Mr. Ehler was selected as the best qualified of the candidates considered.

"It is not for me on this occasion, to discuss specifically what steps may come in the future," added Bundy, formerly a Harvard University professor and dean. He said he felt that the present administration stand was "the position of a solid and very strong majority of the Congress and of the people."

Morgenstern left off with an assertion that "I am opposed to our present policy in Viet Nam on moral, military, political and general intellectual grounds."

Discussing alternatives later, however, he said that "by far the most acceptable from my point of view" is a recent suggestion by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., to "try to hold a few strong points on the coast of Viet Nam, proving to the Viet Cong that they cannot win a military victory, and on that basis try to negotiate with them in the fall."

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, made this suggestion in a Senate speech last week.

More than a dozen of the 88 Democratic assemblymen stubbornly withheld their votes, and the GOP minority refused to supply any support whatsoever.

Leaving Travia short of the 76 votes needed for passage. Meanwhile, among the last major items awaiting action by the Legislature was the annual supplemental budget bill, which provided for doubling of the lawmakers' own $1,000 expense allowances.

This year's session, under Democratic rule for the first time in 30 years, has been the longest since 1911, when the Legislature sat through July 21.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market held gains in a moderate recovery early this afternoon. Trading was quiet.

Fractional gains were the rule among key stocks. Some of the market wheelhorses tacked on a point or so.

Gains ran to as much as 3 or so among higher-priced or volatile issues.

The recovery was a little more than half the loss taken in Monday's slow slide—the lightest trading since last August.

Ability of the market to hold above the lows of a week ago Monday was regarded as a hopeful technical sign.

Enactment of the excise tax steel and a rebound in weekly steel production also were encouraged.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .8 at 321.0 with industrials up 1.9, rails off .2 and utilities unchanged.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.96 at 877.08.

Studebaker held a gain of well over a point following news that its financial situation appears improved through renegotiation of $17 million in short-term debt. The stock was lightly traded, however.

Prices were mixed in quiet trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Thousands Flee Rampaging River

Thousands of persons fled the rampaging Arkansas River today as it continued its destructive swath across Kansas.

The torrent of water, ranging from one to five miles wide, moved ponderously into Larned early today after more than 1,000 persons moved from their homes in the southeast part of the city.

At Great Bend, 35 miles downstream, another 3,000 persons prepared to move before the crest, traveling about 2 miles per hour, hits there later today. The flood was spawned by last week's torrential rains in Colorado where flood damage may total $125 million.

Adding to the havoc were heavy rains in scattered parts of the Kansas flood region Monday night. Jetmore, north of Dodge City, got 3.75 inches of rain in two hours, 2 inches or more fell in about one hour on Larned and Great Bend, and 1.65 fell at Rozel, west of Larned.

The flood waters continued to recede at Dodge City, where 1,800 were forced from their homes over the weekend. At Garden City, where 300 families were left homeless, residents were wading in the remnants of the worst flood in the city's history late Monday when a dust storm blew in on southerly winds of 40 knots, cutting visibility to less than a block.

The water at Larned was expected to exceed the high marks of 1942 and 1951 by 4 to 5 feet, which would place all the business district under water. Sand bags were piled around stores 10 blocks back from the river on the north side.

At Great Bend, store fronts were sandbagged as far as 15 blocks from the normally calm river channel.

Gov. John A. Love of Colorado called the flood "the greatest natural disaster" in that state's history and said he was considering calling a special flood relief session of the Colorado Legislature.

Delegates Doubtful
The government chiefs of Britain, Nigeria, Ghana and Trinidad and Tobago are prepared to set out on the peace mission, but delegates at the Commonwealth conference doubt it will amount to anything if the tour is confined to Sargasso Sea and possibly Moscow.

British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart told the House of Commons the British government still feels U.S. military actions in Southeast Asia were unavoidable.

In Washington, presidential assistant McGeorge Bundy told critics of the U.S. administration's Viet Nam policy that "the policy the United States is now following is the best policy in a difficult and dangerous situation."

Will Close Centers Rather Than Integrate
GRiffin, Ga. (AP)—Officials at Griffin will close the city's parks and youth centers rather than integrate them, City Manager Jack Langford said today.

They are trying to go too fast with the Civil Rights Act, and we are going to have to close these facilities if we cannot keep them open peacefully," Langford said.

The city has one pool for Negroes and one for white persons, and two youth centers—one for each race.

Griffin, about 40 miles south of Atlanta, has a population of about 23,000, of which about one-fourth are Negroes.

Decision Made
that I now announce my decision publicly, that I shall terminate my public service at the end of 1965 and shall not, therefore, be a candidate for reelection.

"It is my fervent hope that my public service throughout the years has justified the confidence which my fellow citizens have so generously given me, and to thank them for supporting me at the polls on so many occasions."

"I also express my appreciation to those who have been so kind as to urge me to offer myself again as a candidate for mayor, and for the many pledges of continued support I have received. I know they will understand my position."

To Give Report
"At an appropriate time in the future, I shall submit to the people of Kingston a resume of the accomplishments of our administration, and of the corrective programs we were able to initiate and put into effect for the benefit of our city and our people."

Mayor Schwenk was elected in 1961 over then incumbent Edwin F. Radel by a plurality of only 81 votes, but in 1963 his plurality was 2,101 over Frank C. Sass, who had been Democratic alderman of the Seventh Ward.

The mayor served as alderman-at-large during the administration of Conrad J. Heiselman, which began in 1934. He also again served in the 1940's during the administration of Democratic Mayor William F. Edelmuth.

Fear New Rioting Over Disposal of Algerian Leader

ALGIERS (AP)—The military regime of Col. Houari Boumedienne held Algerians in a firm grip today after an overwhelming show of force crushed demonstrations by supporters of deposed President Ahmed Ben Bella.

Thousands of troops and riot police converged on the capital Monday and stopped a few hundred youths who marched through the streets. It was the second demonstration in 24 hours.

The demonstrators were dispersed by fire trucks that drenched them with jets of cold water.

While there were no reported injuries in Algiers, unconfirmed reports said at least 10 persons were killed in a bloody clash between troops and Ben Bella supporters in the east Algerian port city of Bone.

Demonstrations for Ben Bella also were reported in Philippeville, Constantine and Oran.

Troops with rifles and submachine guns patrolled the Algiers streets and guarded key buildings. This morning all seemed normal and quiet.

Yet popular discontent with Ben Bella's removal appeared widespread in the city, and new outbreaks of rioting seemed likely.

Diplomats saw the army takeover as a pan-Arab and anti-Communist move. In general, the new regime was regarded as neutralist on the Egyptian pattern.

but the terrorist paid no attention.

As he was being tied to the stake in a sandbagged enclosure, Dang repeatedly shouted in Vietnamese "Long live Ho Chi Minh," the president of Communist North Viet Nam.

The squad took position, fired and Dang's head sagged forward. An officer administered the coup de grace with a pistol. The execution took about one minute.

Police picked up Dang March 20 as he was setting a fuse to an explosive charge hidden in his motor scooter outside an American hotel in suburban Gia Dinh.

Police found a plastic charge, a battery-operated time device and two fuses in the luggage compartment of Dang's scooter.

Police said Dang confessed he was trying to blow up the building. He pleaded guilty at a military trial April 9.

Brig. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi, commander of the Vietnamese army in the northern part of the country, said in an interview today that 20 Viet Cong battalions—perhaps as many as 8,000 men—are now operating in South Viet Nam's five northernmost provinces.

Need Marines to Win
This said he based his information on captured documents and Viet Cong prisoners captured three weeks ago at the battle of Quang Ngai, 55 miles south of the Da Nang air base.

He called for a massive U.S. arms buildup to bring the war to an end quickly.

He wanted to see the U.S. Marines go into action," he said. "We need them to win this war."

This said a three-week lull in Viet Cong activity in the north was to be expected after the Quang Ngai battle. He said, another major attack is likely after the Communists reorganize their forces in the mountains.

He said a prime goal of the Communists was still to cut the nation in half and win a secure foothold on the coastline to increase infiltration into the south.

In London, British Commonwealth leaders struggled to keep their Viet Nam peace mission from foundering after hearing it denounced by Red China and North Viet Nam as a U.S.-British fraud.

The government chiefs of Britain, Nigeria, Ghana and Trinidad and Tobago are prepared to set out on the peace mission, but delegates at the Commonwealth conference doubt it will amount to anything if the tour is confined to Sargasso Sea and possibly Moscow.

Report Embassy Threats
PANAMA (AP)—Foreign Ministry sources said anonymous callers telephoned two threats Monday to burn down the U.S. Embassy.

The threats coincided with stories in the local press of the return of James Jenkins, 18-year-old American who took part in the flag-raising demonstration that triggered bloody rioting in Panama in January 1964.

Jenkins' parents sent him to relatives in Ohio to finish his schooling after the flag incident. He reportedly has returned to spend the summer with his parents.

We have never bought any stocks but are thinking of it because of inflation. We were considering Korvette, Consolidated Edison and Sears, Roebuck. What is your opinion?"—B. B.

A Please first let me express my sincere sympathy on your heart condition and that of your wife. Korvette is a good stock, the leader in its group, but it pays no dividends, and as such does not appear suitable for people in your position.

In the present very advanced stage of the market, I believe I would invest no more than $10,000 of your savings, leaving your E Bonds intact. Consolidated Edison and Sears would both be satisfactory, and in addition, I suggest Standard Oil of New Jersey and Safeway Stores.

Face Trial for Gems

CUNEO, Italy (AP) — Three Italian youths must stand trial on charges of stealing some $20,000 worth of jewelry from the wreckage of King Saud's private jet plane after it crashed in the Alps in March 1963.

An investigating magistrate decided Monday that the youths had no right to act as if the jewels from the Saudi Arabian monarch's plane were an unclaimed find.

The youths said they thought ownership had been abandoned once the zone was declared open after months of fruitless search.

Turnau Players To Open July 9

The Turnau Opera Players open their season on July 9 at the Byrdcliffe Theatre. Typical of talented and dedicated young artists to be heard this season is Herbert Kaplan, associate musical director. Kaplan is a graduate of Yale University and the Vienna Akademie of Musik. At the age of 17 he appeared as soloist with the Boston Pops under Arthur Fiedler for the first of many performances. Since coming to New York in 1961 he accompanied numerous vocal recitals in the city and on Community Concert tours. He served as assistant conductor for the American premier of Alben Berg's LULLY. In the capacity of staff pianist for the BELL TELEPHONE HOUR, Kaplan has worked with almost every great name in opera and ballet including Joan Sutherland, Birgit Nilsson, Robert Merrill, Richard Tucker, Maria Tallchief, Rudolph Nureyev and Andre Egleyevsky.

This past summer he conducted the Hungarian company, BALLETS BIHARIS appearing at the New York Shakespeare Festival and the Boston Arts Festival. Although Woodstock will be hearing Kaplan for the first time this summer, he was the accompanist for the entire Florida season of the Turnau Opera Players. He also played all the engagements for a recent tour of LA BOHEME, the opera which will open this season.

Woodstock Guild Of Craftsmen

Jerry Jeromonek, well known for his Tatra Prints, will instruct a silk screen class for the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen. Classes will be held in the Old Forge Studio beginning Thursday, July 8 at 1:30 p. m.

Mrs. Wettreanu will begin a children's class July 6. Classes will be held four days a week, Monday through Thursday, from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. for the remaining weeks.

The Woodstock Guild welcomes its patrons through a newly painted door. Mrs. Mariette Payne Slayton is responsible for the beautiful restoration of the Guild's front door. Mrs. Slayton of Montpelier, Vt. is a professional in the field of restoring Colonial furniture and has taught workshops at Connecticut University. Her work on the door was a gift to the Guild. The procedure was to first take a tracing of the door and then Robin Wettreanu removed the old paint. The authenticity of the door is in its beautiful soft and subtle colors that create the agelessness of the door.

Summer Fair Set At St. Gregory's

St. Gregory's Episcopal Church, Woodstock, will hold a fair and rummage sale in the parish hall on Saturday, July 10. The theme for this event will be "in the good old summertime." The grounds will open at 10 a. m. and will close when everything is sold or at 10 p. m.

The booths will include a refreshment stand with charcoal broiled hotdogs and watermelon, a "tomorrow's antiques" sale, hand-crafted and sewn articles, books and religious articles, plants, jewelry, baked goods, material remnants, rummage, a "funny photos" photography booth, and penny candy.

Mrs. Philip Frieser, the fair's chairman, extends an invitation to the public.

The program is designed to be informational in character for adults, particularly parents in the community. The public is invited to attend and to present such questions as they may have to the representatives of the district attorney's office.

Nine Explorers Of Scout Council Attend Conference

Nine Explorers from the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, recently attended the Region Two Explorer Delegate Conference held at the U. S. Military Academy, West Point.

Over four hundred Explorers and adult leaders from New York, New Jersey, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands were greeted by Major General J. B. Lampert, superintendent at West Point and Representative Thomas McGrath Jr., from New Jersey.

"Three Seconds to Manhood" was the theme for the weekend activities which included many discussion groups and elective subjects covering all phases of the Exploring program.

The Region Two representative to the 1966 National Conference was also elected with all the pageantry, color and action of a political convention. A very fine teen-talent variety show was staged on Saturday evening with many of the Cadets in attendance. Explorers stayed in the old historic cadet quarters, ate in the large picturesque cadet dining hall and attended Sunday church services with the cadets.

The representatives for the Rip Van Winkle Council were Gregory Hoffer from Post 20 in Hurley; Leo Hanrahan, Thomas Bonnell and Wayne Krom from Post 28 in Ellenville; David Lewis and Michael Heim from Post 30 in Saugerties; Arthur Passanardo from Post 70 in Highland; William Boyd from Post 72 in Marlboro; and Albert Bickmore from Post 77 in New Paltz.

Name New Judge To Ruby's Case

DALLAS (AP)—Judge Louis Holland of Montague, Tex., has been appointed to take over further trial court proceedings in the Jack Ruby case.

The North Texas jurist succeeds Judge Joe B. Brown of Dallas, who asked Monday that he be removed from the controversial case.

Judge Dallas A. Blankenship, presiding judge of the Dallas County 1st Administrative Judicial District, announced the appointment.

Holland presided over a May 24 hearing in the Ruby case to determine which lawyers should represent the condemned man at a pending sanity hearing. Brown had stepped down temporarily for that proceeding.

Brown's removal was the latest shakeup in a case marked by bitter recriminations among the lawyers involved. At least 12 have so far acted as chief defense counsel, only to be fired or to quit.

Ruby, operator of a Dallas strip-tease joint, fired a bullet into Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy, Nov. 24, 1963.

Ruby was tried before Judge Brown and was assessed the death penalty March 14, 1964.

Brown gave no reason for stepping down. Ruby's lawyers had tried several months to get Brown ousted. They contended Brown was writing a book about the trial, and therefore held a personal interest in the final disposition of the case.

AMA Divided Over Medicare Boycott

NEW YORK (AP) — A dispute has broken out in the House of Delegates, policy-making body of the American Medical Association over whether doctors should boycott the pending federal health care program.

Only a handful of the 30-odd speakers at a hearing on boycott resolutions favored cooperation in the program or urged postponing a decision until after the program passes Congress.

Ten resolutions calling for a boycott were introduced Monday in the 235-member house. The resolutions will not be acted on finally until Wednesday or Thursday.

The AMA's new president, Dr. James Z. Appel of Lancaster, Pa., said in his installation address Sunday that it would be unethical and an act of bad citizenship for doctors to boycott the program.

The bill, backed by the Johnson administration, has passed the House. It would provide hospital and nursing home care for the elderly under Social Security.

Ike for Birth Data

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower endorsed today legislation to permit the federal government to distribute birth control information to foreign governments.

Eisenhower, in a statement to a Senate Foreign Aid subcommittee studying the legislation, described curtailing the world's population explosion as a key issue in world survival. He said also that something should be done so that welfare funds might not be a lure for unwed mothers to continue to have illegitimate children.

"Corrective action will require careful study," Eisenhower said. "For even if research should uncover no effective measures other than legal sterilization, a final resort to this method unquestionably would shock great segments of our citizenry."

Spotter Pilot Signals

Marine Phantoms, Ground Troops Defeat Cong Force

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Four Marine Phantom jets streaked south. The voice of an Air Force spotter pilot crackled over the radio:

"The Viet Cong have two government companies pinned down and are threatening to overrun them. The Viet Cong are on top of the hill just west of the river where the smoke is rising."

"I'll mark the target with a smoke rocket. Hit the top of the hill and then work over the tree line on the slope."

The smoke rocket zipped into the Viet Cong positions and the first Phantom rolled in on an attack run.

Saturate Hill

Capt. Michael Sullivan of Beverly Hills, Calif., led the flight which flew to the rescue of the endangered companies south of Da Nang.

"We saturated the top of the hill with our bombs and then began flat passes toward the tree lines, lacing them with Zuni (five-inch rockets)," he reported.

"On our last pass, the government troops began charging up the hill into the Viet Cong positions."

The government assault was successful.

915 Sorties

Sullivan is a member of Marine Fighter Attack Squadron 538. His outfit flew 912 sorties during their months in Viet Nam, dropping more than 700,000 pounds of bombs, 77,000 tons of napalm and firing some 14,500 rockets.

Before the jets began their strikes inside Viet Nam four months ago, close air support and bombing were left to Vietnamese pilots and a handful of Americans flying propeller-driven Skyraiders.

The U.S. Marine and Air Force jets often snake through hilly terrain at 450 miles an hour about 100 feet above the ground to make their runs as effective as possible. Bombing must be done from a higher altitude.

Close Firing

Sometimes the planes are hit by fragments from their own bombs and rockets.

"We've fired within 60 feet of our own Marines on the ground when they were in trouble," said Lt. John Cowell, 27, of Cumberland Foreside, Maine.

So far three U.S. jets have been reported lost on missions against the Viet Cong. At least one was shot down.

Marine pilots say they find their share of the war pretty impersonal.

"What we do is our job," said
